Lancaster Farming Introduces A New Component Of Grower & Marketer:
Turf Tree
Life Is Sweet At Bradford County's Dewy Meadows Maple Farm
CAROLYN MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent
WARREN CENTER (Bradford Co.) — It's a routine that is as natural to maple producers as the changing of the seasons.
Early in the spring, all producers gather their equipment and head off into the sugarbush, a stand of Sugar Maple trees that in many cases, have been prized to the sugar house, where a crackling wood fire heats up the sap, removing the water and yielding a thick, rich amber syrup.
This sweet sign of spring is ever present at Dewy Meadows Maple Farm, host of the Bradford/Sullivan Forest Landowners Association spring tour.
While at the farm, visitors had the opportunity to sample sugar

Lancaster Farming introduces a new component of its Grower & Marketer Section this issue, Turf & Tree. Turf & Tree, part of Section C, focuses on the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic tree care, forestry management, large- and small-scale wood processing, and turfgrass industries. Included: A feature from the Christmas Tree Growers Association Summer Conference in State College, in addition to a review of the Arboretum at Penn State. Also, highlights of the recent landscape and nursery conference, a look at the new Eagles' football stadium surface at Lincoln Financial Field, and a feature on a maple syrup producer are included.

PADLS: Needs Proper Funding, BSL-3 Status

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — If Pennsylvania is struck by ag bioterrorism, our state could have its entire economy shut down.

And if Pennsylvania continues to try to operate its animal diagnostic labs at its current low level of funding, lack of adequate staffing, outdated equipment, and improper testing certification, Pennsylvania doesn't "have a chance of fighting disease," said Dr. John Enck Jr., state veterinarian, executive director of the Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission and director of the Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Enck and Dr. James T. Rankin, state epidemiologist, state department of health, spoke in Rockspring at Ag Progress Days recently. They addressed the joint committee informational meeting, House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee and the House Veterans Affairs and Emergency Preparedness Committee.

The threat of ag bioterrorism, or agroterrorism, is "greater than any time in our history," said Rankin.

Rankin noted the recent BSE discovery in Canada cost that country $3 billion in lost income when the borders were closed to the U.S. "And that was from a single cow!" he said.

Rankin addressed the problems of managing the war on influenza that scientists believe originates in Hong Kong, in which parts resemble a third world country, with the possibility of new genetic strains resistant to treatment caused by co-infected swine or humans.

To create a multibillion-dollar disruption, Enck noted it was "so easy, it's pathetic," he said to the members of the House and Senate who attended the meet-

Compared to Thursday, Choice slaughter steers sold mostly steady on Monday, with the lower quality cattle trading a full 1.00 higher, with sales up to 2 00 higher at times on the Select and low Choice stock However, as the quality increased on Tuesday, bids did not. Granted there were a handful of higher quality cattle on offer that brought as much as 87 00, but the overall Tuesday run sold steady to weak The combined two-day run was light, with buyers making due with what was available to fill their early week needs, which was very apparent on Monday as steers that might have a tough time grading Choice brought in the low-80's Nationally, the Western direct feed yards have opened up the flood gates for the second consecutive week on a Tuesday. This week live cattle sold 1 00 higher in Texas from 81 00-82 00, with Kansas sales steady to 2 00 higher at mostly 82 00 The direct yards are pretty much in line with the August spot contract at the Mercantile Exchange; even though the August contract expires at the end of the week, September closed at 81 40 on Tuesday as the Board remains very bullish. Locally, the Tuesday Holstein supply was very light, and was not tested Although, there was an outstanding supply of high Choice and Prime Holstein steers on Monday that sold up to 1 00 higher, and still had people talking on Tuesday morning The slaughter heifer supply was to light to test Lean slaughter cows sold firm to 1 00 higher, with the fleshier cows trading mostly 1 00-2 00 lower The cow run was made up of primarily Leaner-types, with the fleshier cows a light presence Slaughter bulls sold steady to 1 00 higher The two-day run was comprised of 245 head of slaughter steers, 44 slaughter heifers, 424 slaughter cows, 14 slaughter bulls, and 17 head of feeder cattle

Compared to Tuesday, slaughter steers sold 2.00-3 00 higher. The quality of the run was pretty good, or at least buyers are hoping they grade as high as they paid for them The supply was light as there was barely 300 head of steers on offer The first steer that walked through the door last week weighed over 1500 lbs and brought 84.25, with the first steer through the door this week tipping the scales at 1510 and bringing 84.75. Needless-to-say, it was deja-vu as the sale was extremely active from then on You could easily say there were some national factors that might have had some heavy influence on the late week run. Such as the western trade breaking loose mid-week with steers as much as 2.00 higher, or it could be a higher boxed beef trade, or an extremely bullish Board that posted a couple more rounds of limit-up gains this week, with spot September at 83.30 and October at 82.05 at Thursday's close Whatever the reason, producers are ecstatic to be receiving in the upper 80's for their Prime steers; with the current market not showing a lot of signs of slowing down. Holstein steers sold steady to weak when compared to the nice Monday run, with prices trending with a firmer undertone when compared to last Thursday. There were not enough slaughter heifers on offer to test the market Lean slaughter cows sold mostly steady Fleshier slaughter cows sold mixed, with the bulk of the supply trending near steady. All grades of cows were mostly a full 1.00 lower when compared to last Thursday's market. Yield Grade 1 slaughter bulls sold mostly 3.00 higher when compared to last Thursday, with the fleshier Yield Grade 2 bulls trading 1.00-2 00 lower The supply included 309 head of slaughter steers, 459 slaughter cows, 28 slaughter heifers, 62 slaughter bulls, with 106 head of feeder cattle

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO

August 26, 2003

Report Supplied By USDA

Over night exports offered support to wheat bids. The warm temperatures have kept the spring wheat harvest at a rapid pace. Harvest is listed at 82 percent complete. Corn ended the day mix but the firmer bids were due to friendly weather in the western corn-belt and the drop in the crop ratings. Ratings were posted at 50 percent down 10 percent which was good to excellent. Soybeans were sharply lower despite good to excellent crop ratings which were posted at 48 percent down 8 percent. Wheat was steady to 10 cents higher. Corn was mix, from 1 cent lower to 1 cent higher. Sorghum was steady Soybeans were mostly 9-15 cents lower except Central Illinois Processors which were 4-5 cents lower.

Your power is OFF... and your generator DIDN'T start.
Now your 40,000 Birds or 2,000 Pigs are DEAD.

Top 5 reasons why your generator may overheat and fail this summer...
- Low Coolant level – engine will not cool properly if coolant is below the core.
- Dirty radiator fins – must be free of dirt, dust, feathers, paper, or debris.
- Sufficient air intake – motorized shutters are strongly recommended.
- Improper coolant mix – 50/50 antifreeze and water will ensure max cooling from coolant.
- Faulty exhaust shutters – must open freely with no flow obstructions.

Here are the 5 things we'll do to help you prevent this disaster...
- We'll perform our "Generator Readiness Evaluation" worth $175 for FREE.*
- We'll detect your potential problems quickly with our trained technician team.
- We'll dispatch our technician with a service van stocked with the most popular service parts.
- We'll recommend a "Preventative Maintenance Program" that best suits your needs.
- We'll respond to emergencies you have 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Read All About It!

On September 3, 1833, publisher Benjamin Day distributed the first issue of his New York paper, The Sun, a four-page daily selling for one penny.

Day gave New Yorkers what he thought they wanted sensational accounts of crime and horror, human-interest stories, and no politics. One of the first things Day did was to run this ad in his second issue "To the unemployed—A number of steady men can find employment by vending this paper. A liberal discount is allowed to those who buy to sell again." Ten-year-old Barney Flaherty responded and was hired. Benjamin Day gave America its first successful penny press and its first newsboy

Broiled Swordfish Kebabs

1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 cup white wine vinegar
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 tbsp. soy sauce
1/2 tsp. red pepper sauce
1/8 tsp. black pepper
2 pounds fresh swordfish
2 sweet red peppers
24 cherry tomatoes juice of one lemon
rice, cooked, to serve six

Mix together the first six ingredients to make a sauce Cut the swordfish and peppers into 1-inch chunks Marinate fish in the sauce for 1 hour Remove fish and reserve marinade Boil marinade for 3 to 5 minutes Skewer fish, peppers, and cherry tomatoes in an alternating pattern on 12 skewers. Place on cookie sheet and broil for 10 minutes, baste with marinade and turn several times. Before serving, squeeze lemon juice over all Serve on a bed of rice. MAKES 6 SERVINGS.

Lancaster Farming

Forest Products: Part Of Agriculture's Big Picture

Today we introduce a new component of Lancaster Farming Grower & Marketer Section, Turf & Tree. We hope to bring information to you about our burgeoning forest products, in addition to turf industries — all a part of our great agricultural industry and heritage in the state.

The farm press may have overlooked the importance of these industries, but no more! Lancaster Farming is tasked to cover growers that provide turf and related management strategies for stadiums and landscape use, Christmas trees and related cut tree ornamental products, maple syrup production, and care and management of the state's expansive, industrious woodlots.

According to information supplied by the Pennsylvania Forest Products Association, did you know that about 60 percent of the state is covered in forestland? The forests grow faster than the harvest rate, but we cut enough board feet each year to circle the globe more than seven times!

About 500,000 private landowners control 11.5 million acres of forest, or an average of 23 acres each. Farm and forestland generate $1 in local tax revenue for every 2 cents to 6 cents they require in public services.

Did you know that the state's 17 million acres of forest are primarily hardwoods, which are very dynamic? And each Pennsylvania resident, according to the association, uses wood equal to a 100-foot-tall tree (and there are 12 million of us).

The hardwood resource industry amounts to 90,000 jobs in Pennsylvania.

Unfortunately, hard-line environmentalists try to undermine what a lot of industries do to protect the environment as a matter of course — and survival. Maybe they don't realize, according to the association, that timber harvesting ranks at the bottom of the list for sources of nonpoint water pollution. Some oppose timber harvesting altogether, with their "zero cut" philosophy.

Misinformed about forestry and forests, people are often unaware we can have wood products today and trees for tomorrow by careful management. And that also gives us, noted the association, the "scenic, recreational, and other benefits that our forests provide."

We'll do our part to promote those philosophies in this issue of Lancaster Farming's Grower & Marketer (in Section C this week) and in future issues.

To Be Aware Of New Crop Insurance Rules Before Beginning Harvest

The Risk Management Agency, USDA had announced changes in requirements for producers who suffer crop damage to the extent that they may file a claim for loss under the federally sponsored crop insurance program.

Being aware of these changes is especially important if you plan to harvest a damaged crop for another use such as silage. These changes were made to minimize program waste, abuse and fraud. Your insurance company makes final determinations regarding the requirements.

The general rule of thumb remains: report crop damage immediately when it occurs to your insurance agent. This usually is within the prescribed time limits of the various crop policies, which vary from within 72 hours to 15 days. One must be especially careful with late losses on or about the end of the insurance period (earlier if total destruction of the crop, harvest completion date, or the calendar date in the policy, for example, 12/10 for grain corn and soybeans) as claims can be denied if notices are not filed by this date.

Tell your agent about the damage and what you plan to do with the crop. Ask the agent for instructions for any special requirements that you must follow to justify your claim to the insurance adjuster when the claim is worked, such as waiting to harvest until an adjuster sees the crop. If in doubt, get in touch with the company fieldman or adjuster for a second opinion.

If you plan to harvest a damaged crop for another use (such as harvesting a grain crop for hay or silage), producers are required to file notice of damage at least 15 days before such silage or haying begins to provide the adjuster the opportunity to either appraise the yield potential or designate sample row areas to appraise the yield potential at a later date. If damage is discovered after harvesting of the unit begins, stop harvesting and contact your agent immediately, while evidence remains, and ask for instructions on how to proceed. If you cut silage or otherwise destroy a crop before the adjuster sees it, your claim may be denied!

If you have more than one insurance unit for the crop with low yield or poor quality and production from multiple units will be stored in the same bin or structure, contact your agent before you commingle the production. Ask for instructions as to the insurance company's requirements for records to be acceptable, before you begin harvesting.

Combine monitor and load records may not be acceptable for claims purposes unless the insurance company authorizes them before harvesting begins. Likewise, it is not acceptable for the producer to mark the bin to record the depth of the crop from each unit, unless it is pre-approved. Be sure that you understand the insurance company's requirements for records for on-farm scales, moisture tests, test weights, etc. before you begin to harvest a low yield/poor quality crop.

The rules have changed. Proceeding as you did last year may result in your claim being denied.

To Care For Next Year's Strawberry Crop

Late August and Early September is when strawberries set their fruit buds for next year's crop. In the conventional production system, they also produce additional runners during this period as well. In order to maximize the potential of next year's crop, one must care for the crop now.

The first step you should take now is to apply a second application of nitrogen. You should have fertilized with about 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre in early July at renovation. If you did that you should now add an additional 20 pounds of nitrogen per acre to give the plants another boost. If you did not fertilize at renovation, then add 40 pounds of nitrogen per acre now. Irrigate to incorporate the fertilizer.

If the weather becomes dry, irrigate through September to reduce crop stress. When the temperatures drop in the fall, strawberries resume vigorous growth and it is important to remove any water stress to enable the plants to produce next year's buds and runners.

To Lighten Your Load

Don't forget to take the time to attend one of the four meetings to be conducted in Lancaster County this coming week on dealing with creditors and the stress associated with recent difficult financial times on the farm.

On Sept. 4-5, the Lancaster County extension office will conduct several meetings to give some guidance in dealing with these issues.

These half-day sessions will be repeated in four locations in Lancaster County to make it convenient to attend. The first meeting will be conducted at the Hoffman Building in Quarryville from 9:30 a.m.-noon on Thursday, Sept. 4. That afternoon the same program will be from 1 p.m.-3:30 p.m. at the Salisbury Township office located at the east end of the Village of White Horse.

On Friday morning, Sept. 5, the meeting will be conducted in Manheim at the Lancaster DHIA lab. The final repeat of the program will be at the Martindale Fire Company from 1 p.m.-3:30 p.m. that afternoon.

For more information, contact the Lancaster County extension office at (717) 394-6851. Registration is not required but would be appreciated to assist those who will be setting up for the meetings. Take a few hours out of your schedule to attend this helpful event before the busy fall harvest season starts in earnest.

Editor:

Thanks for the updates on the story of the Lancaster County farmer who is faced with getting his land taken by the township supervisors as a water source for pending development. Please keep us abreast of continued developments on this story.

Eminent domain, especially in this case, reeks of communism. I was wondering, do these same supervisors have anything to gain by this theft? Do some of them own land that will be developed or have friends who do?

People have a right to do with their property as they please, but not at the expense of another. Please try to expose this in future articles, and hold their feet to the fire. You will be doing us all a great service.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

SHUT UP AND SEALED

Background Scripture:
Daniel 2.
Devotional Reading:
Revelation 21:1-7.

For every student of the Bible who is intrigued by the mystery, symbols, and puzzle-solving challenge of apocalyptic literature, there are many more of us who are happy that there are only two books and a few other passages that fit into this biblical category. Compared with the relative simplicity and clarity of the gospel, the apocalyptic is a maze through which many people wander without finding an exit.

For me, a little apocalyptic literature goes a long way. The problem is not so much in the literature itself, but in that so many people become obsessed with solving its riddles, often with a sense of rather singular accomplishment. Apocalyptic literature can serve a purpose; unfortunately, not those to which so many people have put it.

The twelfth and last chapter of Daniel is a case in point. Consult a half dozen scholars and you will get a half dozen or more tentative interpretations. For example, in 12:4 there is a phrase, "Many shall run to and fro...." Some interpreters believe this means "perusing" — eyes running to and fro as they seek to understand this strange document. Others think it means "perplexity" at the strangeness of this book.

Some say it tells us what will happen when the book has been unsealed and read. Still others believe it a reference to the commotion and turmoil that call for the book to be sealed. Many believe it also is a reference to the upheavals and commotion that arose in the latter days of Antiochus Epiphanes. None of these interpretations are harmful to unless someone tries to make a doctrine of them and none of them really add anything to the gospel.

Puzzles And Riddles

Another point of intrigue and controversy is the statement in 12:7. In answer to the question, "How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?", one of the angels replies that it would be "for a time, two times, and half a time."

Also puzzling is 12:11 — "And from the time that the continual burnt offering is taken away, and the abomination that makes desolate is set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days. Blessed is he who comes to the thousand three hundred and thirty-five days." Intriguing riddles, but not much of a guide for Christian discipleship.

So, has Daniel no value for the Christian? No, what it means is that we need to focus on the main tent and not the sideshows. And what is in the center ring? Daniel teaches us that God is the ruler of nations and history. His purpose will come to a final culmination and fruition, despite all the human and natural obstacles along the way.

Hang In There!

Therefore, hold on to your faith and take the same courage Daniel displayed in 3:17,18, when he replies to Nebuchadnezzar: "...our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace; and he will deliver us out of your hand, O king. But, if not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the golden image which you have set up."

Even if he has incorrectly interpreted that God will save them from the fiery furnace, still he will not forswear his faith and worship Nebuchadnezzar's idols for he knows that the future is in God's hands alone.

Unfortunately, lots of Christians, despairing of the world in which we find ourselves, look eagerly for the final consummation so that evil will be punished and righteousness rewarded. They cannot wait for God to strike down those with whom they have been unable to cope. They want a Wagnerian Gotterdammerung from which the "righteous" (whoever that turns out to be!) shall emerge victorious. That is not the kingdom of God that Jesus heralded.

So the wisest words in this whole chapter are those spoken when Daniel asks, "O my lord, what shall be the issue of these things?" The angel replies: "Go your way, Daniel, for the words are shut up and sealed until the time of the end" (vs. 8,9). Amen.

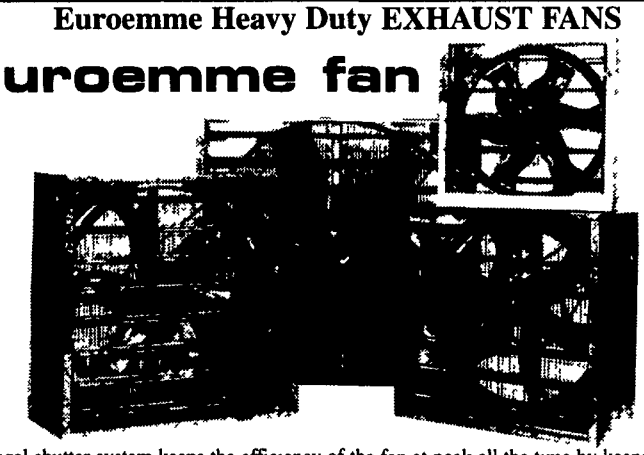
Euroemme Heavy Duty EXHAUST FANS

Euroemme fan



Centrifugal shutter system keeps the efficiency of the fan at peak all the time by keeping the shutters fully open Shutters do not have to be cleaned regularly. Heavy duty galvanized shutters are tightly closed when the fan is not working preventing any air leakage. Considering the effect of dirty shutter on the other slant wall fans, the efficiency of the euroemme fan is 15-25% better than any other slant fan

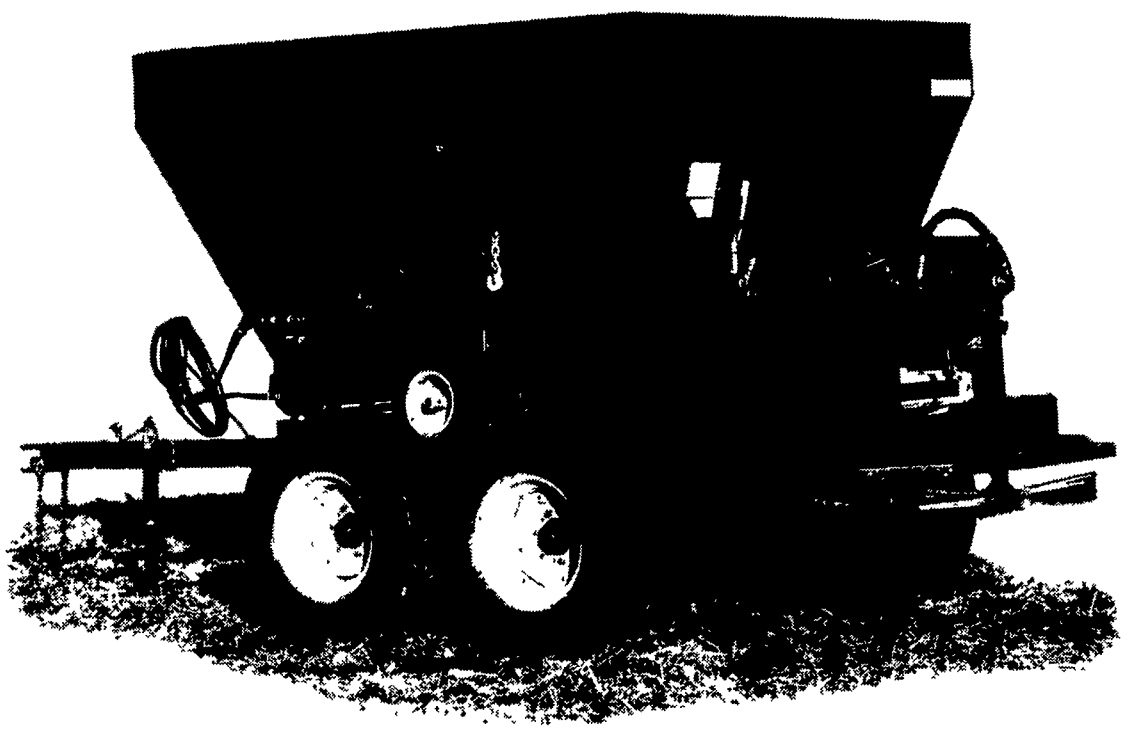
The One Spreader Rugged Enough For Lime, Precise Enough For Fertilizer.



You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

CHEESE STOCKS LOWER

- American cheese down 4 percent.
- Butter stocks still growing.
- Cash and futures markets holding.

This week I attended a dairy industry conference and had a chance to speak with my fellow dairy economists and get the "scoop" on what is happening in California. Some said there has been significant heat damage to the milk supply and that this will show up in next month's Milk Production report. Others said they did not notice any difference in milk shipments.

The market appears just as confused as my survey. That said, the dairy futures and the cash markets for butter and cheese at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange are still pretty firm.

Block and barrel cheese averaged $1.60 and $1.5675 per pound, respectively, at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Grade AA butter dropped a penny a pound by Friday, but averaged $1.1467 per pound. Only one carload of barrel cheese and six car loads of 40-pound block cheese traded hands this week. The market is taking a "wait-and-see" approach to market uncertainty.

USDA's Cold Storage report may be adding more mystery to the outlook. As of July 31, 2003, butter inventories were up 12 percent over a year ago to 275.3 million pounds. American cheese inventories were down 4 percent to 550.4 million pounds. Total cheese was down 3 percent to 809.1 million pounds.

Recall that milk production and cheese production were very strong last year. So these slight drops may not represent much of a shortfall. Put another way, it may not suggest we have been selling lots and lots of cheese.

The futures market is still convinced that cheese prices will rise through the fall months. As of Aug. 22, 2003, Class III futures are expected to be $13.77 per CWT for August, $14.20 per CWT for September, $13.95 per CWT for October, $12.80 per CWT for November, and $12.23 per CWT in December.

While the futures prices have dropped a bit, they are still averaging $0.95 per CWT above the 5-year average prices for August-December. It is always a good idea to consider locking in milk prices when they rise above the 5-year average.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

A 'Wonderful' Dairy Show At Allentown Fair

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Jessica Dietrich's cow, Lynnacres Emory Wonderful, won the supreme championship at the Great Allentown Fair Dairy Show Wednesday.

The homebred, senior 2-year old Holstein was selected as the top animal out of all the dairy breeds shown by 26 exhibitors at the fair.

Dietrich, 10, said she had an enormous amount of family support in her dairy show efforts. Those cheering her on included parents Brian and Fay Dietrich and brothers Adam, 7, and Josh, 3, as well as grandparents, cousins, and an aunt and uncle.

"It feels pretty good," Dietrich said of having the top cow. "I came here with all my family members. They give me a lot of support."

The Dietrichs, New Tripoli, milk 250 registered Holsteins in partnership with Brian's brother William and his sister Robin.

Jessica Dietrich said the name Wonderful came to mind when the animal was born, in part because "she looked really nice and sweet."

The name also fit with the Dietrich's tradition of naming heifer calves with the same first letter as the name of their dam. Wonderful's dam was a cow named Wilma.

Wonderful is classified Good Plus-83.

Jessica is a fifth-grader at New Lehigh Middle School. She has been showing dairy animals for four years, and has been a member of the Lehigh County 4-H Dairy and Beef clubs for two years.

Jill Vail, Blandon, showed the supreme champion dairy bull, an Ayrshire calf.

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

TIMONIUM, Md. — About 116 animals went on sale Sunday night here at the Maryland State Fair.

About 218 buyers registered at the start of the sale.

Grand champion beef, exhibited by Jacob Wolfrey, Frederick, Md., sold for $3 per pound to Greg Deggeller of Deggeller Attractions. Reserve champion beef, exhibited by Randi Rodeheaver, was sold to Stony Brook Development, represented by Lou Strosnider, for $3.70 per pound.

Grand champion exhibitor Jacob Wolfrey, 18, is the son of Dan and Judy Wolfrey, Frederick. The 2003 Sherando High School graduate exhibited a 1,291-pound Angus/Chianina crossbred. Jacob said he purchased the animal from a private sale in Illinois.

This was Jacob's first champion at the Maryland Fair. He shows at the Frederick County Fair in Maryland.

Reserve champion Randi Rodeheaver, 16, is the daughter of Donald and Sharon Rodeheaver, McHenry, Md. Randi, a junior at Northern Garrett High School, exhibited at the fair for her first time and picked up her first champion.

Randi exhibited a 1,170-pound Maine Anjou crossbred steer purchased at Sun Rise Club Calves in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania. She nicknamed the steer "Tweeter" after a character in the "Varsity Blues" movie, she said.

Meghan Norris exhibited grand champion dairy steer. Pearce Norris purchased the 1,288-pound steer for $1 per pound.

In market hog competition, Heather Willis, 14, won grand champion hog with her 245-pound Hampshire crossbred. The hog sold for $2.30 per pound to Mike Birch.

Reserve champion hog was exhibited by Timmy Martin, 13, Smithsburg. Jimmy Kimbles purchased the hog for $1.70 per pound for Kimstead Farm.

Heather Willis, grand champion exhibitor, is the 14-year-old daughter of Christopher and Fran Willis, Walkersville, Md. The Walkersville High School 10th grader exhibited the medium weight champion, a Hampshire crossbred. Heather also exhibits at the Frederick Fair. She purchased the hog from the Hoosier Sale in Ohio.

Reserve champion exhibitor Timmy Martin, 13, is the son of Karen and Steve Martin, Smithsburg, Md. The Smithsburg Middle School eighth grader exhibited his first champion with a purebred Yorkshire homebred from Ivy Hill Farms. Timmy said he picked it out himself, noting he liked the swine's "good muscle definition." He won reserve at the Washington County Ag Expo. He also won first place at the National Junior Swine Association Summer Spectacular in Louisville, Ky.

In 4-H/FFA market lamb competition, Christopher Utz exhibited the grand champion. Dennis Kendall, manager, Cornerstone Antiques and Consignments, Timonium, Md., purchased the 128-pound champion for $7.50 per pound. Kendall noted he wanted to "give back" to the 4-H program for all it means to him.

Maryland State Fair

The 128-pound reserve champion, exhibited by Morgan Meisenheimer, Mount Airy, Md., sold for $5 per pound to Becky Lynch.

Grand champion exhibitor Christopher Utz, 14, is the son of Deb and Dennis Utz, Limeboro, Md. Christopher, in the ninth grade at North Carroll High School, exhibited a crossbred wether, his first champion.

Reserve champion exhibitor Morgan Meisenheimer, 12, is the daughter of Millie Meisenheimer, Mount Airy. Morgan exhibited a crossbred wether, "Buddy." Morgan is in the seventh grade at New Market Middle School.

In market goat competition, champion was exhibited by Claire Bennett and sold for $5 per pound originally to Dick Byrne, Maryland 4-H program leader. The goat was then resold for $4.75 per pound to Andy Cashman, assistant general manager of the Maryland State Fair.

Reserve, exhibited by Aaron Lantz, was sold for $5.25 per pound to Farm Credit of Virginia, represented by Willie Lantz for F.J. Grady, Oakland, Md.

Champion Claire Bennett exhibited her crossbred doe, "Ivy," a homebred named because of its Christmas Day birth, she said. Claire, 12, is the daughter of Bruce and Kate Bennett, Union Bridge, Md.

Claire noted she raises "really nice goats" and takes time to make sure they get proper exercise. Claire noted she raised last year's grand champion at the fair.

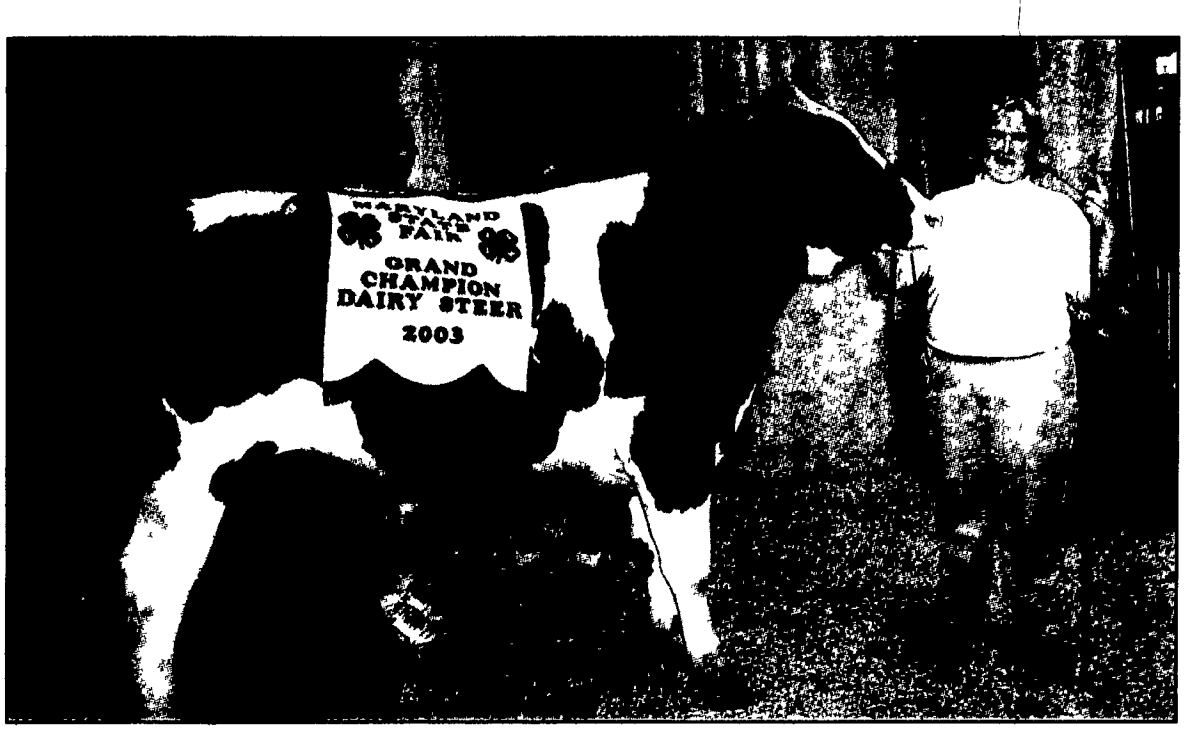
Reserve champion Aaron Lantz, 9, is the son of William and Arlene Lantz, Oakland. This was his first time as champion, with a wether. Aaron said he is in the fourth grade at Yough Glaeds Elementary School.

The champion rabbit was exhibited by Brittany Cusic and sold for $110 to the Maryland Foods Pavilion, represented by Stan Dabkowski. Reserve, exhibited by Sean Baker, sold for $120 to Craig Oliver. The reserve was then resold for $100 to Robin Keyser.

Present at the sale was Maryland Lamb and Wool Queen and Howard County Fair Queen Anna Schlicht. Anna, 17, is the daughter of Dianne and John Schlicht, Clarksville, Md.

This was the first year the state fair did not have a "queen." Instead, the title was changed to "fair ambassador."

This year's fair ambassador was Sara Wiles, Washington, Md. Sara, 16, is the daughter of Robert and Vickie Wiles. Sara, a Clear Spring High School senior, is in her eighth year as a 4-H member in the dairy club, dairy goat club, and fashion club. She brought eight different projects to the fair.



Grand champion dairy steer, exhibited by Meghan Norris, far right, sold for $1 per pound to Pearce Norris. From left, Maryland State Fair Ambassador Sara Wiles, Lynn Norris, Pearce Norris, and Meghan.

Northumberland Dairy To Host Grazing Meeting

SHAMOKIN (Northumberland Co.) — Lloyd and Andy Reitz will host a grazing meeting on their farm near Shamokin on Thursday, Sept. 11, from 12 p.m. to 2 p.m.

The meeting is being sponsored by Project Grass and the Northumberland County Conservation District. The Reitzes are converting their operation to an intensive grazing system. They milk a large Holstein herd. The Reitzes are also completing a project with the CREP program to establish a pasture watering system and streambank fencing.

The farm is located in Irish Valley. From Sunbury, take Rt. 61 south to 890 south. Take 890 south for approximately 5-6 miles. Turn left onto SR 4026 (Irish Valley Road) and follow for approximately 2-3 miles until you reach Hill Road. Take a left onto Hill Road. Reitz Dairy is the first farm on the right.

From Trevorton take 890 north, turn right on SR 4026 and follow for 2-3 miles until you reach Hill Road. Turn left on Hill Road. The Reitz Dairy is the first farm on the right.

Guests must take appropriate biosecurity precautions before attending the meeting: wear different shoes than are normally worn around livestock at home and wear clothing that has been laundered since being worn around livestock.

Lunch will be served at 11:30 a.m.

Call The Northumberland County Conservation District Office at (570) 286-7114 to register for lunch.

Rabenold, Billig Families Show Top Swine At Allentown

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — The Rabenold family of Kutztown showed both of the supreme champions in the breeding swine show, while the Billigs of New Tripoli took top honors in the market hog competition at the Great Allentown Fair this week.

Samantha Rabenold, 13, nudged her Hampshire gilt to the top of the female breeding swine competition. Her father Carl Rabenold showed the top boar, a Yorkshire.

The Rabenolds keep a total of about 20 purebred Hampshires and Yorkshires on their dairy farm near Kutztown.

"My dad had Hampshires for probably 40 or 50 years," Carl Rabenold said.

The family began raising Yorkshires more recently — about four years ago, according to Carl.

Samantha Rabenold is an 8th-grader at Kutztown Middle School and a member of the Berks County 4-H Club.

The Rabenold family is continuing a winning streak at Allentown. Last year, they showed the top market hog and gilt here.

Tim Billig, 14, exhibited the grand champion market hog, a heavyweight crossbred. His brother, George Billig, 18, had the reserve champion.

The Billigs are members of the Lehigh County 4-H Club. Another brother, Daniel, is also a common sight in the swine show ring.

Parents Timothy and Teresa Billig and their sons keep about 30 sows from the Duroc, Landrace, and Chester White breeds.

A total of about 400 hogs walked through the ring in the breeding and market swine shows, according to judge Doyle Stepp, who hails from Tennessee.

Stepp said he has been judging hogs "a long time."

Breed and class results are scheduled for the next issue of Lancaster Farming.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
August 27, 2003
Report Supplied by USDA

SPOT PRICES OF CLASS II CREAM, dollars per lb butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.6054-1.8577. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.6273-1.8691 mostly 1.7200-1.8233.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .8500-.9300. Class III, spot prices: 1.0300-1.1500.

SPOTS SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This Week: In 236, Out 0; Last Week In 199 Out 0; Last Year In 94, Out 0. SOUTHEAST STATES: This Week: In 0, Out 0; Last Week In 10, Out 0; Last Year In 0, Out 0.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

The base price for Class I milk for September 2003 is $13 71 per cwt., up $2.74 from August. A Class I differential specific to each pricing point (county) is added to the base price to determine the applicable Class I price. The Class II skim milk price for September is $6.69, up $0.05 from August.

Milk production continues to decline at varying rates throughout the region. High temperatures and humidity plague the Southeast and Middle Atlantic areas. Milk output continues to decline from Florida back through the Plains States. Florida's need for milk continues to grow and the volumes imported are dramatically higher than a year ago at this time. Handlers in other Southeastern states are also looking for milk and so far, they have been unsuccessful in their search for extra milk.

In the Northeast, the milk flow is about steady, but plant receipts are still easing lower. The demand for Class I milk is exceptionally good. This is creating a lot of opportunities and problems. Suppliers are able to easily move their milk at a premium. The combination of the reopening of schools and the $2.74 jump in September's Class I milk price is creating a sharp jump in demand. Bottlers want to package as much milk as they can before new prices go into effect. This is typical when Class I milk prices jump, but it may also lead to a slower demand for milk the first few days of September when bottlers clear this week's inventory. Also, reports indicate that Canada is not fully recovered from the blackout and milk buyers are looking for U.S. milk to supplement their own supplies. Contacts at manufacturing plants report that receipts are down this week. Most are either not getting the milk or selling what they have to meet Class I needs. Operating schedules are light and often just to meet contractual agreements.

The condensed skim market is little changed, but lighter milk receipts at most butter/powder plants are reducing offerings.

The fluid cream market is little changed. Supplies are very tight and demand is good. With the big draw for Class I milk, regular suppliers of cream do not have any cream to offer at this time. Multiples are commonly in the 150's f.o.b. and a few were noted above 160. Bids to buy on the Internet-based website were generally going unfilled, regardless of multiples. Buyers don't like these higher numbers, but they do need the cream and, relatively speaking, the CME butter price is quite low. Historically, when milk and cream are as tight as they are, the butter price would be increasing, not decreasing as we have seen in the past few weeks. Ice cream production is steady to lighter. Sales of soft serve and hard ice cream are about steady, but Labor Day does mark the "end of summer" and ice cream sales tend to ease after the holiday. Churning activity is limited, but some plants are back on line after being down last week for maintenance.

UNDERSTANDING EXPECTED PROGENY DIFFERENCES IN BEEF CATTLE FOR THE FIRST-TIME BUYER

Cheryl Fairbairn
Chester County Extension Director

Fall brings with it cooler weather and the opportunity to attend various cattle sales throughout the country. Many producers are offering bred heifers, weaned heifer calves, and bred cows, often with the most current genetics the breed has to offer.

As a first time buyer, you need to be aware of the information that is offered on the sale cattle and have a basic understanding of what that information means to your operation.

The majority of breed associations have calculated EPDs (Expected Progeny Difference) values on animals within that breed. These numbers are obtained from a huge data base of weights and measurements obtained from breeders who submit this data on a yearly basis on their herd.

Weights submitted include birth weights, weaning weights, yearling weights, and more recently ultrasound data that enables the determination of the type of carcass that animal will produce without slaughtering it. All of these measurements are submitted into this data base and the EPDs are then determined for a particular animal. If the animal is from a herd that submits this data, the EPDs for that animal will appear on its pedigree.

As a buyer these are an invaluable tool to use when purchasing an animal. It gives you the history of what its past ancestors have done and what the animal you are about to purchase can potentially do for you if the animal is handled correctly.

The Angus breed has the largest data base of all breeds. Other breeds have data bases, too. It is difficult to compare EPDs between breeds since they are calculated and reported differently. If you want information on a particular breed, call the National Breed Association to obtain information on EPDs for that particular breed.

In a nutshell, as a first-time buyer you want to select breeding stock with balanced traits across the board. You want low to moderate birth weights to avoid calving difficulties and strong maternal characteristics such as milk EPDs that show that the ancestry of that animal has milked well and will raise a heavy calf. Weaning and yearling EPDs should also be high. This shows the animal's ability to grow on mother's milk and then on feed once it is weaned and on its own.

Marbling is a sought-after trait now in carcasses so look for cattle with positive marbling traits. If you are handed a pedigree without EPDs, there is a pretty good chance that the owner has not submitted data on that particular animal.

EPDs are only a tool and you need to also look at the personal record of the animal you are about to purchase. What was its actual birth weight, weaning weight, and yearling weight? What were its ratios? Is it sound on its feet and legs? What is the disposition like and how is this herd handled? Are you looking for cattle that will make it on grass or cattle that will be fed grain throughout most of their life?

Last but not least, does the person you are purchasing cattle from have a good reputation and are they honest about their numbers and methods of handling?

Combine all of these information pieces and you will have a better chance of selecting cattle that will fit the needs on your farm. Remember that information is only as good as the person who submits it. If you have any questions, ask your breed association representative or state or county extension beef specialist for help in understanding the information available to you.

Cattlemen's Association Announces Show, Sale

MEADOWLANDS (Washington Co.) — The Washington County Cattlemen's Association has set Saturday, Sept. 27, as the date for its third annual club calf show and sale here at the Washington County Fairgrounds.

The sale will feature 30-40 lots of show quality, halter-broken heifers and steers. The lots will be shown and judged beginning at 4 p.m. and sold according to show placement at 6 p.m.

Lunch and refreshments will be available throughout the day. A Silent Auction will also be held with proceeds going directly to the Washington County Cattlemen's Association Educational Support Grant.

Applications for consignments to the sale are available to anyone in the tri-state area and can be obtained by contacting Brian Hrutkay at (724) 239-3556 or Mike Rohaley at (724) 229-4856.

Lebanon County Holstein Sale Posts Results

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Holstein Club hosted its 24th annual sale at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Aug. 22.

Bidding was brisk on fine consignments throughout the sale. The sale was topped by a daughter of Regancrest Magnificent, consigned by Glen Brubaker and purchased for $3,150 by Darryl Brubaker of Womelsdorf.

Second high seller was a Storm daughter consigned by Stonehurst Farms of Strasburg and purchased for $2,350 by Justin Hillegas of Berlin.

Next was a Silky Cousteau daughter from Stonehurst, purchased for $2,250 by Mervin Brubaker of Womelsdorf.

Two Comestar Leader daughters consigned by Adam and Lisa Sonnen of Richland were purchased by Michael Bohonik of West Middlesex for $2,250 and $2,200, respectively.

Rounding out the top six was a Jolt daughter from Mike Kunkle of Jonestown, purchased by Justin Hillegas for $2,150.

Fresh cows and heifers averaged $1,910 and bred heifers averaged $1,830. Adam Sonnen and Andy Ebersole co-chaired this year's sale.

Organic dairy production will be a highlight of the Sept. 20 Lancaster Farming Dairy Plus booklet.

Scheduled: features on organic dairy farms and strategies for success in organic milk production from university. In addition, news and information from the breed associations and cooperatives.

Families Stick Together At Grange Fair

NICKI LEFEVER
Special Correspondent

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) Harold Harpster has been at the Grange Fair for more than 50 years.

Harpster, the owner of End-Ru Jerseys, Boalsburg, brings the whole family to the Grange Fair, including his 91-year-old father Russell Harpster who came for the chocolate milk and to watch the kids.

"I can't believe it's been this long," Harpster said. "I have been showing since I was 10."

The 2003 fair was a little different for Harpster, whose wife Shirley passed away earlier this year.

"It is definitely an adjustment," Harpster said. "We are getting through it."

He still pushes along. He brought 26 dairy registered Jerseys to the fair. Lollie, a 9-year-old from his 75 head homebred Jersey farm, won champion Jersey at the open dairy show.

Daughters, sons-in-laws, and grandchildren all come to the fair and take a part in showing the animals. Harpster is happy to help out and make it a family operation.

His father owned the farm and raised Holsteins until the '70s, when he took it on with Jerseys and named it End-Ru after his mother Edna and father Russell. Harpster attributes his success in farming to simplicity.

"We are not over our heads in debt and we are able to stay in business because we keep it simple," he said, referring to their surge pale or belt milking process.

"Milking hasn't been done that way since the 50s," he said. "Those things are antiques."

The Wise family helped each other out as well.

Michael Wise didn't get to show his Southdown ewe because he was on his way to college at California University of Pennsylvania. With a little help from the family, his Southdown ewe won supreme ewe. The news came with a phone call from his mom Michelle.

"Oh, he was happy," she said of the 18-year-old. "He came last week to trim her, but he was upset he couldn't be here."

Michael's sister Jennifer, 16, stepped right up to show the sheep.

Regarding the sheep, "That girl likes to be shown," Michael's mom Michelle said. "She is a good ewe, more like a pet."

The Wise family lives on Whipenn Hill Farm, Spring Mills.

The 129th Grange Fair truly was a family affair. More than 2,000 families set up in tents and campers right on the fairgrounds in Centre Hall, with plenty of food, rides, games and crafts to keep them occupied for the seven days.

"Farming and fairs," Harpster said. "It is all about being passed down from generation to generation."

Organic Farming Group To Offer 'New Farmer Course' At N.J. College

PENNINGTON, N.J. — Have you ever thought about starting a farm? New Jersey's proximity to large consumer markets offers tremendous opportunity for small-scale farm businesses, but the barriers to entry can be daunting.

A new course offered by the Northeast Organic Farming Association of New Jersey (NOFA-NJ) and Mercer County Community College (MCCC), promises to show would-be farmers that it can be done.

"Exploring the Small Farm Dream: Is Starting an Agricultural Business Right for You?" will begin on Sept. 9, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and will run for four consecutive Tuesday evenings.

Classroom sessions will be conducted at the Mercer County Community College West Windsor Campus, 1200 Old Trenton Road, West Windsor, NJ 08550. In addition to the evening sessions, a field trip to a successful small farm business in Mercer County will be arranged.

Instructors for the course will be Pam Flory, former farm manager at North Slope Farm in Lambertville and at Spring Hill Farm in Hopewell, and Laura Sayre, program manager at NOFA-NJ and a former employee at the Watershed Organic Farm in Pennington.

"Starting a farm business — like starting any business — involves risk, but it can be extremely rewarding," said NOFA-NJ's executive director, Karen Anderson. "Our hope is that this class will help people make realistic projections about those risks and rewards, and move toward their goal of working the land. Demand for locally-grown and organic produce in this region is rapidly outpacing supply, so one of our major goals as an organization is to help new farmers enter the field."

The Exploring the Small Farm Dream curriculum was originally developed by the New England Small Farm Institute, a non-profit organization providing educational and other resources to beginning, limited-resource, part-time, and small-scale farmers in the northeast. Funding to bring the course to New Jersey was provided in part by First Pioneer Farm Credit's AgEnhancement Program.

Tuition for the course is $150 including materials, although two people working on the same farm business idea may attend for a single tuition of $170, including two copies of all course materials. Registration can be completed online at www.mccc.edu (do a search for course #XCP265), or by calling MCCC at (609) 586-9446.

CREP Expands Northward

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Conservation leaders recently announced 100,000 acres in 23 additional counties in the northern part of the state are eligible for enrollment in the conservation reserve enhancement program (CREP).

Sign-up begins Sept. 2 for the 23 counties, which make up Pennsylvania's upper Susquehanna River basin from the central part of the state north to the New York border.

The first CREP was announced three years ago for 100,000 acres in 20 Pennsylvania counties in the southcentral part of the state. The expanded CREP includes all 43 Pennsylvania counties in the Chesapeake Bay watershed.

CREP is a voluntary program that pays participants to plant hardwood trees or establish grass filter strips, riparian forest buffers, vegetation, streambank fencing, and other conservation practices on environmentally sensitive land. In return, participants receive annual rental payments, cost-share assistance, and other financial incentives.

Interested farmers and ranchers should contact their local FSA offices for more information on eligibility requirements and application procedures. Additional information is also available online at http://www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/cepd/crep.htm.

A detailed report on the expanded CREP is scheduled for the next issue of Lancaster Farming (Sept. 6).

pacts affecting agriculture. Estimates show that U.S. farmers spent $1 billion to $2 billion more this year than last just to plant a crop. The availability and affordability of energy is essential to the competitive production of high-quality food and fiber.

It is time to start addressing our country's long-term energy concerns by enacting a comprehensive program in Washington that fully utilizes domestic sources of energy. Both the House and the Senate have passed energy legislation. Now they must work out the differences in a conference committee. President Bush has said he wants to sign comprehensive energy legislation before the year's end.

The bills passed thus far contain several incentives for increased use of renewable energy sources, such as ethanol made from corn, soybean-derived biodiesel, biomass from animal waste, and wind energy generated from on-the-farm turbines. Renewable energy not only benefits the environment, but also serves as economic stimulus for rural areas by creating jobs and establishing additional markets for farm commodities.

Each bill includes a renewable fuels standard, calling for increases in the nation's use of renewable fuels to 5 billion gallons over the next decade. The provision is estimated to increase demand for corn by more than 1 billion bushels and soybeans by 144 million bushels. Additionally, estimates show a renewable fuels standard would create the need for $5.3 billion in new investment in production facilities in rural areas, as well as create 214,000 new American jobs.

Another component to successful energy legislation is the extension of tax credits for renewable energy sources. An energy tax package, expected to be offered during the energy bill conference, would grant $15.5 billion in tax incentives to expand the use of renewable energy and increase domestic oil and gas production.

The family farms represented by Pennsylvania Farm Bureau urge members of Congress to finish the energy bill as soon as they return from the August recess so President Bush can sign it into law. We also encourage Pennsylvanians to call upon Congress for speedy action.

The nation's energy policy is vital to the success of American agriculture and the future of all Americans. Instead of being a drain or a drag on our economy and our environment, the package on the table will help fuel our nation for a long, productive haul and a cleaner, renewable journey.

— Guy F. Donaldson

PADLS: Needs Funding, BSL-3 Status

ing at Ag Progress. "I hate to say how easy it is."

Rankin said that biological warfare weapons are extremely cheap to develop and field. The cost of an atomic bomb by comparison: about $290 million.

The worst part: lab tests still have to go to Plum, Iowa, simply because the Pennsylvania diagnostic laboratory system, based in the southeast and south central regions of the state, isn't certified to do so and doesn't have the equipment.

"If you don't have the capability, through funding, you don't have a chance of fighting disease," said Enck.

There are about 21 major animal (zoonotic) diseases compared to nine human disease agents. It is far more prevalent to see animal health challenges ranging from avian influenza to foot and mouth disease and even BSE, than some of the human diseases such as smallpox or anthrax.

Human history has been affected by disease outbreak, from the Black Plague to the flu. Rankin said, "Germany lost (World War I) because of the flu."

Enck spoke about the role that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Animal Health and Diagnostic Laboratory System, or PADLS. PADLS combines three separate animal diagnostic laboratories: the state's Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory, University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center, and Penn State University.

The laboratories encompass about 80 percent of the entire animal production in Pennsylvania.

> "We can't wait a week (for the test results). If we have foot and mouth disease, we're in terrible trouble."
> — Dr. John Enck Jr.
> State Veterinarian
> Director, Bureau Of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services
> Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture

Pennsylvania's dilemma noted Enck: not enough trained people with proper equipment to do the job right.

Needed: $51 million to modernize the facilities at PADLS and staff properly.

Also needed, according to Enck: biosafety level 3 (BSL-3) status so that testing of possible infectious agents (while protecting the staff) can be done in the state (instead of in Iowa) and have the tests completed in hours instead of days.

Those tests now could take a week and put a hamper on rapid detection and response.

"We can't wait a week," said Enck. "If we have foot and mouth disease, we're in terrible trouble."

Right now, PADLS doesn't have the "right biosafety level to handle those things," he said. If an outbreak would occur, "all the rest of ag would have to stop — be put on old — while our laboratory is quarantined."

The 10-year-old equipment the lab has is like "driving around a 1956 Ford," said Enck. "We need the rapid test . . . at our fingertips. We are going to get creamed if we don't."

Adding BSL-3 at each lab would amount to about $52.4 million — a request being made to the state by the laboratory.

It's a question, according to Rankin, of how safe we want to be.

Said Rankin, "What do we need to protect our children, and our grandchildren, and my dog, whom I love?"

Dairy One Technician Participates in Training

ITHACA, N.Y. — Dairy One farm service technicians that have completed their first month of working in their circuit recently attended "school".

Six technicians met at the Dairy One office in Ithaca to become more familiar with the Dairy One support network and enhance their knowledge of software and customer care. Brian Stump of Kimmell, Ind., was among those that attended along with other technicians from Pennsylvania and one technician from Connecticut.

Stump has been with Dairy One for about a year. He is a technician for farms from Anderson, Ind., to Byran, Ohio, and as far north as Greenville, Mich. He and his wife, Alice, live on the home farm where Brian has lived his entire life. He milked cows in a partnership with his father until August.

Stump's circuit includes farms with 60 cows to 3,000 cows with a total of 10,000 cows per month.

During the three-day training, Stump was able to visit and meet the people involved with each business unit. This included a trip to the Ithaca milk lab where he was able to observe the process of the milk analysis.

Lancaster County Weekly Cattle

New Holland, Pa.
Report Supplied By USDA
Friday, Aug. 29, 2003

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2114	2119
LAST WEEK	2173	1909
LAST YEAR	2539	1475

Compared to last week, slaughter steers sold mostly steady early in the week, with the lower quality cattle trending 1 00-2 00 higher on Monday It was another bell ringer on Thursday as prices were a full 2 00-3 00 higher on the light run In May of this year prices for Prime steers got up to 90.00 in Lancaster County, with many producers and analysts assuming that the market would eventually slide into it's historical summertime lows. However, every time there is a hint of weakness, the fat cattle market comes back to life This held true on Thursday as once again several small packages of high Choice and Prime steers sold from 88 00-89.60, with one head at 90 00 The beef industry is in relatively unfamiliar territory, especially as we head into early September Boxed beef cutout values are holding firm, with heavy and light Choice carcasses both at 143 00 The current August live cattle contract at the CME will expire by weeks end, but it is going down fighting as there have been several limit-up rallies over the past couple of weeks; it closed at 84 05 on Thursday Spot September and October are set to pick up right where August leaves it, at 83.30 and 82 05 respectively The western direct feed yards moved their steers from 81 00-84 00 live, and from 131.00-132 00 on a dressed basis, with the MPR office in St Joseph, MO reporting nearly 240,000 head traded by Thursday afternoon Maybe the prices of these high price feeders are justified, with the December live cattle contract currently at 80 20, with February at 79.30. Although when you are giving over 90 00 for 8-9 weights you had better be a pretty efficient feeder. Its anyone's guess right now where things are heading, you used to be able to point to the phases of the moon when the market was good, bad, or ugly Who knows, maybe it's the once in a lifetime look at the planet Mars in the southeastern sky that has the pot stirred up; lets just hope that unlike Mars, we won't have to wait another 300 years before we see such a hot summer market Local Holstein prices were mostly steady on Tuesday and Thursday, with a very nice run of high Choice and Prime steers up to 1 00 higher on Monday The heifer runs were to light to test this week Lean slaughter cows sold steady to 2 00 higher this week, with all other classes trending steady to 3 00 lower. Slaughter bulls sold unevenly steady Yield Grade 1 bulls sold steady to 3 00 higher, with the fleshier bulls trading steady to 2 00 lower The reported supply this week in Lancaster County included 605 head of slaughter steers, 90 head of slaughter heifers, 1075 head of slaughter cows, 114 head of slaughter bulls, and 230 head of feeder cattle.

Calf Summary Compared to last week, slaughter calves sold steady to sharply higher early in the week, with late week prices mostly 2 00-10 00 lower There is around 60-70 percent of the graded runs currently going to slaughter as producers have their veal barns filled up. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold steady to 30 00 higher, with instances sharply higher on the heavier weight bulls The majority of the weakness was noted on the lighter weight Number 2 bulls, as they sold sharply lower at the Tuesday and Thursday sale Holstein heifer calf prices have picked up some steam as the better heifers are bringing as much as 500 00 Northeast special-fed hide-off veal carcasses are as high as 340 00, as demand remains very good due to the light offerings The reported supply this week included 1410 head of bulls and heifers that were graded by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, compared to 1269 head the prior week

Slaughter Calves: Good and Choice 335-500 lbs 80.00-85 00 Standard and Utility 50-125 lbs 20 00-37 00, up to 47 00 on Tuesday, weaker 10.00-20.00

Pa. Receives $3.9 Million For Farmland Preservation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Dennis C. Wolff and Douglas J. Lawrence, of the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, announced on Thursday that Pennsylvania will receive $3.9 million in federal funds for farmland preservation this year, Pennsylvania's largest annual award to date and the top award in the nation for 2003.

"Pennsylvania leads the nation in the number of acres of prime farmland being protected and maintained for production agriculture," said Wolff. "Since 1996, when the federal government began reimbursing states for farmland it preserves, Pennsylvania has received nearly $5 million to purchase 72 agriculture conservation easements across the commonwealth. The funding commitment we are receiving today will significantly enhance our efforts to maintain prime farmland and strengthen Pennsylvania's agricultural economy."

More than 13,400 acres of prime Pennsylvania farmland have been preserved under the federal program.

On Thursday, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board was expected to vote on preserving 50 additional farms, totaling 5,339 acres.

NASS Agriculture Counts

By Marc Tosiano
Pa. State Statistician

Editor's note: This is a monthly column from the Pennsylvania Ag Statistics Service (PASS), a field office of USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA). The Website is www.usda.gov/nass/.

LAST CHANCE TO HELP YOUR COUNTY

The number of farms in each county is very important, especially to cooperative extension. As they defend their budgets, they need to know how many agricultural places are in each county and a count of what is being raised by county. They also need to know how many are large, medium, and even small hobby farms so they can serve you better.

If you still have that green or tan Census of Agriculture form in your mail pile, now is the time to fill it out and send it in! This is your last chance to increase the count of farms in your county by completing the form and sending it back.

During the rest of August, we will also be calling some of those that have not yet sent in the form. We are trying to do our best to get the most accurate counts for every county in Pennsylvania.

Every response is important because the numbers that come from the Ag Census will be used for the next five years as part of the decisions that affect Pennsylvania agriculture and you.

If you have questions about the census or need a census form, call (888) 4AG-STAT or (888) 424-7828.

Crop Forecasts

Aug. 1 field crop forecasts are based on the June Acreage report combined with results of the monthly Ag Yield survey conducted throughout the growing season. We have yet to measure how the crop conditions may have changed during August.

Stay tuned for the Sept. 11 crop report for the corn and beans update! Small grain forecasts differ for spring versus fall planted crops.

Wheat and barley production in Pennsylvania is expected to be below last year, with wheat down 33 percent and barley down 12 percent. Oat production is expected to be 8 percent above 2002. The large decline for wheat is entirely because of lower yields because acreage is the same as 2002.

As of Aug. 1, average yields are expected as follows: 66 bushels for oats, 60 bushels for barley, and 42 bushels per acre for wheat.

At 115 bushels, average corn yields in Pennsylvania are above last year by 47 bushels as of Aug. 1. Combined with more harvested acreage, production is forecast at 103.5 million bushels, 75 percent above 2002.

Soybean production in Pennsylvania is expected to be 60 percent above last year. The forecasted 40 bushel average yield is 14 bushels above 2002 while acreage is up by 15,000 acres.

Dry alfalfa production in Pennsylvania is forecast at 2.17 million tons as of Aug. 1. A higher expected average yield of 3.1 tons combined with more acreage harvested to make the production forecast 23 percent above than last year.

Dry other hay production in Pennsylvania is forecast at 2.28 million tons as of Aug. 1. A higher expected average yield of 1.9 tons combined with slightly more harvested acreage will make the forecast 27 percent above 2002.

Tobacco, both Maryland and Pennsylvania types, anticipate increased production compared to last year. Maryland-type production is up 3 percent because of higher yields from the same number of acres. Pennsylvania-type is up 14 percent because of increased acres harvested with the same yields expected as 2002.

Apples are forecast at 440 million pounds in Pennsylvania, 19 percent above last year. Pear output, at 4,100 tons, is expected to be up 8 percent from last year. Grape production of 70,000 tons is up 32 percent from 2002. Peach production is forecast at 70 million pounds, 17 percent above last year.

Mushrooms

U.S. Agaricus mushroom sales totaled 831 million pounds for 2002-2003, virtually unchanged from the previous year.

Pennsylvania accounted for 56 percent with 461 million pounds. California ranked second with 128 million pounds or 15 percent.

The 2002-2003 U.S. Agaricus crop was estimated at $852 million in sales, with Pennsylvania sales at $366 million. Nationwide, Brown mushrooms, including Portabello and Crimini varieties, accounted for 110.7 million pounds, 17 percent above previous year. The value of sales for Brown mushrooms was $140 million, 19 percent above 2001-2002.

In 2002-2003, there were 126 Agaricus growers nationwide with 77 of those in Pennsylvania. The previous year showed 128 growers nationally with 78 in Pennsylvania.

The 14-page report has additional data about Specialty mushrooms and Certified Organic mushrooms. See www.usda.gov/nass/; use the SEARCH button to find the "Mushrooms" report released on August 15, 2003.

Aquaculture

/For 2002, Pennsylvania producers of aquaculture products reported sales totaling $9.1 million, 3 percent above the previous year. Only those with more than $1,000 in gross receipts were included in the summary.

Sales of food fish comprised 81 percent of the total sales with the remainder of the sales made up of sport and game fish, baitfish, crustaceans, mollusks, ornamental fish, and other animal aquaculture (tadpoles and frogs).

There were $4.6 million from trout sales, 8 percent below 2001. Trout makes up 50 percent of total aquaculture sales in Pennsylvania. For 2002, this ranks Pennsylvania as the fifth largest state for trout sales behind Idaho with $30.5 million, North Carolina with $6.8 million, Washington with $5.4 million, and California with $5.1 million.

Washington jumped from fifth to third place with a 53 percent increase in sales from 2001.

Pennsylvania is no longer a leading state for trout distributed for restoration, conservation, and recreational purposes. These are fish raised primarily by or for state and federal hatcheries.

The value of these trout in Pennsylvania dropped by 45 percent from $10.6 million last year. This happened because state hatcheries were temporarily closed to address water quality issues. Nationwide, these distributed fish were valued at $60.3 million in 2002. The top states are valued as follows: California with $8.4 million, Pennsylvania at $5.9 million, Colorado at $5.5 million, Washington at $5.1 million, and Oregon at $4.9 million.

The 20-page trout report has additional data about trout sales by size, losses, etc. See www.usda.gov/nass/; use the SEARCH button to find the "Trout" report released on Feb. 28, 2003.

Red Meat Production In July Monthly Record

Washington, D. C.
Report Supplied By USDA/NASS

ADD A GRAZING SYSTEM TO YOUR FARM YOUR HERD AND FAMILY WILL THANK YOU

King's Friendly Mix

Our Mixes Will Improve Your Farm's Profitability

2003 was a challenging year to harvest stored forage. Add a grazing system to your farm to reduce harvest risk and increase forage quality. Sugars, vitamins, and other factors are at their best. Cow comfort on pasture is also excellent. Great forage quality combined with cow comfort results in cows that last longer - and more lifetime profit per cow!

King's GRAZING MIX
Combination of late heading perennial ryegrasses, orchardgrasses, clovers, and chicory. Excellent for grazing. Surplus growth makes excellent balage or haylage.

High Yields! GREENFAST
Fast establishing high yielding mix designed for short term (3 yrs) forage fields Great for grazing, balage and haylage Excellent for renovating thin pastures and hay fields

Highland HAYGRAZING MIX
Our most drought tolerant mix. Make early cuts for hay, then add to your grazing rotation. Should be rested 3-4 weeks between harvests and NOT mowed shorter than 3". An alfalfa grass blend.

New! HILLSIDE MIX
A mix of premium orchardgrasses, Paddock Meadow Brome, and a bit of Tivoli Per Ryegrass with lots of Alice white clover and some Cyclone Red clover Ideal for hillsides and organic farms

King's FRIENDLY MIX
Similar to King's Grazing Mix, but will provide a little more summer production because it has AR1 enhanced ryegrass w/better heat resistance, as well as a little more orchardgrass

Very Palatable! DAIRY PLUS
This is our most palatable mix and should make the highest milk yields - but requires the best soils It is a ryegrass, Timothy, and clover blend

The Replogle Family of Three Spring Run Farm in New Enterprise, PA has been farming with the Harvestore® System since 1971, when their first 25x80 Harvestore was built. (The original Goliath® unloader from 1971 was replaced with a new Alliance® in 1998). When they built their 62x14 Slurrystore® in 1975, they were looking to the future. Recently they doubled the size of their Slurrystore to 62x28, increasing their manure storage capacity from 316,418 gal. to 622,378 gal., to accommodate their present needs.

Kings Farm: Where The Blacktop Ends

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — As summer wraps up, people are scrambling to escape for a final fling of vacation.

Not Neal and Mary Lou King.

"We aren't big go-away vacation people," Mary Lou said. "We feel like our farm is a vacation spot, and we try to relax here."

Those words might give the wrong impression to people who don't know the Kings. They don't live on a nonworking farm, and they certainly aren't lazy.

Sure they live on picture-perfect farm in rural Cochranville. So rural, in fact, that Mary Lou jokes they should name their place "Where The Blacktop Ends."

It's a full-fledged working farm with 145 milking cows plus replacements and 90 acres of crop farming — all done by the King family and one full-time hired man.

"It keeps us busy, but we find pleasure in our everyday work," Neal said.

The Kings have four children — Kelly, 12; Colton, 10; Kristy, 8; and Kandy, 5.

Kandy was born with severe birth defects that have not been medically diagnosed. After heart surgery (when her heart was only the size of a cherry tomato) and numerous life-and-death encounters, Kandy has stabilized, but the 5-year-old is developmentally between 3-6 months old. She requires constant care, and needs to be fed through a tube. Her gastro-intestinal system is seriously defective. Her parents need to get up several times during the night to change her position because she has difficulty breathing and swallowing, which could result in asphyxiation or choking.

While many people would be overwhelmed providing the care Kandy needs, the family radiates contentment and enthusiasm for life. Mary Lou said, "We love her. It's a joy taking care of her."

Neal and Mary Lou King and children, Kelly, 12; Colton, 10; Kristy, 8, often use this Gator to transport Kandy around the farm. The puppies — Sunny, Spot, and O.P. Junior — often go along for the ride.

The Kings said that some people think Kandy's quality of life is so limited, and is of no value. But Mary Lou said, "Who are we to judge? We are all made in God's image, and we see her as no less valuable.

"She has taught us so much — to be thankful for little things, not to take our health for granted. I think the experience has made our older children more compassionate toward others with disabilities."

Mary Lou sees living on a farm as an advantage in caring for Kandy. Neal is nearby to care for Kandy whenever Mary Lou needs to transport the older children to 4-H, church, and other community activities. A visiting nurse also helps with Kandy's therapy. And, to Kandy's delight, a four-wheeler is often used to transport her around the family farm.

The Kings look for ideas to improve the three-generation farm and make it more attractive. When they purchased the farm, they remodeled, added on to the house, and landscaped the property. Neal and Mary Lou King with children, Kelly, Colton, Kristy, and Kandy.

The Kings look for ideas to improve the three-generation farm and make it more attractive. When they purchased the farm, they remodeled and added on to the house. They can sit at the kitchen table and look out the spacious windows and see miles of surrounding fields.

Everything new isn't necessarily better. For that reason, the Kings kept the cast iron radiators, which had been installed in the farmhouse during World War II. In addition to the radiators' instant warmth, they also have an accompanying story from that era.

Neal said several of his grandparent's children had pneumonia. The family thought it would be better to install a furnace for more uniform heat instead of using only a cookstove, but steel was rationed during the war. The family needed a doctor's written permission to put radiators in the house.

Transferring the family farm isn't always easy when numerous children want to farm. Neal's dad, Merle, was one of nine children. Merle's parents Valentine and Naomi helped the other sons acquire their own farms and were ready to retire when Merle was old enough to take over the family farm.

Neal has two sisters and one brother. His dad helped his younger brother purchase a neighboring farm. Each operates an independent dairy but the brothers help each other with the crop work.

Neal said he and his dad believe that transferring the family farm from one generation to the next should be done about every 30 years.

"If you let it go longer, the person buying it doesn't have enough time to pay it off," Neal said.

In 1991, the Kings built on to the barn to increase to 111 stalls. Before that, they had only 39 stalls and needed to switch cows around three times to complete each milking. King allows the cows to go dry 10-12 weeks so that he doesn't need to switch them around.

Although they eventually hope to expand even more, they said, the Kings want their place to remain a family farm.

"We keep looking for ways to ease the labor so we can continue to enjoy it," Neal said. One of those ways was to build a bigger silo.

"I don't like trenches — too much spoilage," Neal said. "I guess I'm too picky, but you've got to be when you're a small farm. One bite of mold in one day can make a cow drop in production, but it takes two weeks to build her back up."

"To get good milk, you've got to get good feed into a cow."

The Kings raise their own feed, and are particular with harvesting it in its prime.

When it comes to adopting new farming practices, Neal said, "I'm not the kind to jump in. I want to see it proven. I'm interested in long-term results."

Rotational grazing isn't something he considers. "We don't have enough land for our cow herd size, plus my boy and I both like running equipment," he said.

The rainy spring season hurt their alfalfa fields, and they haven't been able to harvest any good baled hay. But the corn looks tremendous — with three ears of corn on some stalks. Neal said, "I expect 200 bushels of corn per acre in some of the fields this year."

The Kings say their full-time hired help, Shane Johnson, has been with them for seven years. Mary Lou helps with the milking on weekends and whenever Neal needs to do crop work or take off for other reasons.

"She is the big reason for success behind this farm," Neal said of his wife.

In addition to her enthusiasm for farming, her positive attitude, and encouragement to him, Neal said that Mary Lou lines up the breeding program.

Mary Lou said, "I like to see good cows, and prefer doing the pedigree work along with Select Sires' mating program. We breed for good feet and legs rather than milk. I get excited seeing a good heifer (resulting from her breeding choices)."

The Kings also raise a few good bulls, and what they don't raise themselves, they sell.

They believe a sturdy cow fed good feed will yield good milk, and that longevity is more valuable than pushing for production that shortens a cow's lifespan.

Mary Lou's interest in cows was revealed at an early age. She said, "My dad says that as a 3-year-old I could name all the cows on my parents' farm. I always knew I wanted to farm."

The older King children also help with the milking and barn cleaning.

Although they live in Chester County, the Kings are active in Lancaster County 4-H. Kelly is involved in many 4-H clubs such as sewing, crocheting, art, dairy beef, quilting, archery, and candle making. See page B10, for a story on Kelly's mishap with a 4-H animal.

Colton said, "I'm into farm working." He's also into country

On Being a Farm Wife
(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Frustrated? Yep. Irritated? Yep. Disgusted? You betcha'.

All over the melon-cholic I've been battling lately.

Reason for this grumbling — and bad spelling — lies in a couple of bad experiences lately with one of our favorite summertime treats. Watermelons.

Gone are the days, pretty much, when watermelons were a special summertime treat, served up for family festive or holiday occasions. Summertime picnics, like the classic gatherings of family and friends that will take place this Labor Day weekend, were, and still are, an ideal setting for enjoying the special treat of a crisp, cold, tasty watermelon.

And the perfect place to keep a big, ole' watermelon cold, crisp and ready for juice-down-the-chin pleasure was the springhouse, where the big green striped fruit could be floated in icy-cold water, kept fresh and chilled until slicing time.

Most of that has changed these days. Few folks, except some of us farm/old house types, have access to springhouses. Families are smaller and refrigerators offer limited space for reunion-sized dessert fruits. So, watermelon is more frequently purchased these days in pre-cut sections, attractively nestled in icy beds on retail produce displays.

The mystique of a melon purchase is pretty much gone with pre-cut sections. What you see is really what you get. No more holding your breath as you slit the melon with a knife, hoping that the center is bright red, crisp, and sweet.

We both love watermelon, from breakfast fruit to lunch dessert to nighttime snacks, and can polish off a good-sized one in a couple of days of hot weather. Visiting, hungry grandchildren help make them vanish even faster. So whole watermelons still arrive in our kitchen regularly when in seasonal abundance. And, we usually have pretty good luck with the "knock, knock" test, thumping melons until one answers with a sort of hollow, resonant echo sound.

Up until this year, that is. Maybe it's been the weather, chilly for so long, then brutally humid, but lacking bright sunshine. Maybe the choicest melons are sliced for in-store sale by section, for fruit plates and fruit salad mixes.

Whatever the reason, our daughter and I have lamented together for weeks about this season's mediocre watermelon quality. And the stalks growing in the garden have been so slow that only now does it look like they might actually deliver mature fruit.

High hopes for one nice, large melon purchased recently at a local supermarket crashed when The Farmer sliced into it on the kitchen counter. The inside was already way beyond ripe, (closer to rotting) and sticky juice ran all over the counter and the floor. He mopped the mess up as best he could at the time and warned me about the leaky melon residue. I mopped up the stickiness a second round.

The overripe melon went back the next day for a replacement instantly given. But it took an inconvenient second trip to get it.

And, the irritating scenario was repeated on my next melon purchase a week or two later, this time purchased at a major discounter's produce section. Slicing this time revealed a melon center barely pink-colored. A refund has been promised on my next visit.

"Enough!" I declared.

My latest melon purchase was by far the season's best: right off the stand of a local produce market nearby. Picked fresh from their fields, it was priced more reasonably than either of the rejects and the quality was superb.

We truly live in a world market and are blessed with a bounty of food from near and far. We can enjoy fresh fruits and veggies months out of season and exotic tastes which simply can't be homegrown. So, when it comes to food shopping, there's nothing wrong with thinking global.

But for best freshness, taste, and quality, whenever possible, I'll buy local.

Penn State Opens Venison Workshop To Hunters

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Time was when every deer hunter was taught how to butcher a deer, process the meat and prepare a variety of tasty venison dishes. But these days, it sometimes seems like that vital information is not passed down.

So Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences is opening its Sept. 10 Venison 101 Workshop —which has been offered to extension educators the past three years — to the public. "It's a one-day, intensive hands-on program designed for hunters or family members who have an interest in expanding their knowledge of deer diseases, processing venison, and preparing venison for friends and family," said Cathy Cutter, assistant professor of food science.

The workshop, which will run from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Penn State Meats Lab near Beaver Stadium on the University Park campus, begins with an evaluation of deer diseases (including chronic wasting disease), followed by proper field dressing, an opportunity for hands-on processing, and cooking/canning demonstrations. Participants will be able to taste venison products and interact with speakers.

The deadline to register for the Venison 101 Workshop is Sept. 3. The cost of $100 per person includes educational materials, lunch, breaks, venison and door prizes.

To register or to get more information about the Venison 101 Workshop, visit the Web at http://foodsafety.cas.psu.edu/PDFs/venison101.pdf or contact Cathy Cutter by phone at (814) 865-8862 or by e-mail at cnc3@psu.edu.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Labor Day weekend. I'm sure that it means different things to different people. For some it really means a vacation from work while for others it is just another day. Farmers are in the group to whom it is just another work day. Maybe a picnic could make it a special day for them.

I decided to look over some diaries from the 1950s when our four oldest children were young. It was a time when we allowed folks to drive in our meadow, fish, and swim in the Conestoga River. They paid us 25 cents for a carload of people. One year our six- and eight-year-olds dug in my garden and got fishing worms to sell for 15 cents a dozen to fishermen.

Each morning started with washing the milk buckets and equipment. Then I went to the garden to pick tomatoes and cucumbers. The beans were grown in the corn field and climbed up the stalks. One year in the 1950s I had 80 pint of pickles canned by Labor Day. Fifty years ago we were raising tobacco as a cash crop and usually my husband was working to put the tobacco in the barn on Labor Day. I did the washing on Monday morning.

One day I wrote in my diary that the pigs were in the garden again and that the lawn mower broke. Our oldest children liked to go fishing and swimming. We canned tomatoes and also sold some to the neighbors. Now my garden only produces enough for us to can and eat. No more do I hunt people to sell my produce to. We surely worked hard on Labor Day 50 years ago.

Blair County Conducts Dairy Princess Pageant

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

TIPTON (Blair Co.) — Tracy Bigelow, 17-year-old daughter of Richard and Cindy Bigelow, Williamsburg, was named recently Blair County Dairy Princess.

Tracy helps on the family's 180-acre farm known as Dippy Acres, which is home to about 90 Holsteins and Jerseys.

A senior at Huntingdon Christian Academy, Tracy is employed part time on the family farm and at Mill Hill Agway. She is the Williamsburg Farm Show queen and is a past dairymaid.

Runner-up is Lydia Dively, 18-year-old daughter of Andrew and Lennett Dively, Claysburg.

Lydia will be a freshman at Lock Haven University of Pennsylvania and plans to major in elementary and special education.

She is involved in her church youth group and teaches during children's church.

The dairy princess pageant was held at Del Grosso's Family Amusement Park in Tipton and included a parade of future dairy princesses and little farmers.

Participants included Andrew Brumbaugh, Carolyn Smith, Austin McMonagle, Tiffany Pheasant, Adam Russell, Carrie Russell, Joshua Russell, Alexis Pheasant, Levi Russell, Robyn Pheasant, Colton Kensinger, Lauren Kensinger, Caulen Metzler, and Jenna Grace Metzler.

The 2003 Blair County Dairy Misses are Tara Brumbaugh, 11, daughter of Marty and Diane Brumbaugh of Curryville; Melinda Dively, 9, daughter of Andrew and Lenett Dively of Claysburg; and Lindsay Knab, 9, daughter of David and Genee Knab, Hollidaysburg.

The 2002 Blair County Dairy Maids are Katie Bigelow, 13, daughter of Randy and Twila Bigelow, Williamsburg; Kristy Bigelow, 12, daughter of Randy and Twila Bigelow of Williamsburg; Julie Dell, 15, daughter of Leon and Elaine Dell of Martinsburg; Kelly Over, 15, daughter of Glen and Cathy Over of Williamsburg; and Shanda Pheasant, 13, daughter of Dale and Jodi Pheasant of Williamsburg.

Sarah Dell, outgoing dairy princess, reported she had attended 70 school promotions; wrote 28 newspaper articles; appeared on 18 radio/tv shows; attended 97 store or mall events; participated in 22 non-farm events; 11 farm meetings; and 25 special events.

The Blair County team of promoters traveled more than 6,700 miles and distributed more than 5,500 recipes and almost 24,000 promotional items during the past year.

Kick Off Fall Harvest At Springton Manor Farm's Family Day

GLENMOORE (Chester Co.) — Spend a special day with your children, friends and family at Family Day, Saturday, Sept. 27, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at Springton Manor Farm. Rain date is Sunday, Sept. 28. The event features children's activities; craft vendors; farming demonstrations; agricultural exhibits; music; Celtic dance; food; games; animals; pony rides; soldiers; classic and antique cars, trucks, tractors, and steam engines; Bouncy Castles; and more!

Family Day highlights the fall harvest with exhibits such as horse-shoeing, milling roof shingles, sawmill log cutting, wheat weaving, bee-keeping and ice cream making. Bring your own clothes to "stuff a scarecrow;" straw provided.

Take a hayride to explore the 300-acre property, including an animal visiting area, open pastures, a Butterfly House, Victorian gardens, Manor House, woodlands, pond, interpretive walking trails and natural history exhibits.

Admission and parking at Family Day is free. Family Day is sponsored by the Chester County Board of Commissioners through the Parks and Recreation Department.

Springton Manor Farm, 860 Springton Road, Glenmoore, is located 5 miles west of Downingtown off Rt. 322. For more information, call (610) 942-2450 or visit www.chesco.org/ccparks.

Strausstown To Host Antique Auto Show, Flea Market

STRAUSSTOWN (Berks Co.) — The 32nd annual Antique Auto Show and Flea Market hosted by the Strausstown Lions Club is Sunday, Sept. 7. The event is conducted in the Strausstown Lions community park located along Route 183, ½-mile south of I-78 Exit 7. All show cars must be pre-registered.

The show car gate is open from 9 a.m. until noon. During that time show vehicles enter the judging field and are placed in their assigned classes. Each vehicle receives a souvenir dash plaque for entering the show.

Area businesses are sponsoring first, second, and third place trophies to be awarded in the 51 classes for antique, classic, and special interest vehicles manufactured up to 1978. Senior cars, those having previously won a first place award at an Antique Automobile Club of America national meet, will not compete in class judging.

Each senior car is presented a participation award for displaying at the show. This year's senior car award is a 1927 Graham Bros. Delivery Truck. Awarding of the trophies is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. The flea market opens at 6:30 a.m. More than 275 vendors are expected to attend.

Antique gas engines equipment will be operating through out the day. Local owners will be displaying antique farm tractor and farm toys. An antique John Deere tractor display will be presented by the "Deere Hunters."

Musical entertainment featuring "Six Times Nine" will appear on stage starting at 11:30 a.m.

Spectator admission is $3 (16 years old and under admitted free). All proceeds are used in support of the blind, the hearing impaired, and for community betterment.

Fluff 3 windrows in one pass

You'll cover acres fast, and bale or chop sooner with the Model 169 tedder. It uses six rotors to ted a wide 22'8" area. That's wide enough to fluff three windrows from a 9' mower-conditioner. Yet transport width is a narrow 9'8" for easy maneuvering. The frame of the "169" is fully articulated, so it hugs the ground to fluff all of your crop for fast drying. And the Digidrive® coupling provides smooth, reliable operation.

Beat the weather with the Model 169. Stop by for details.

CREAM CHEESE APPLE MUFFIN

Topping:
- ½ cup walnuts
- ½ cup brown sugar
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon lemon peel, grated
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine ingredients and set aside.

Muffins:
- 2 cups flour
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 cups apples, chopped coarsely
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup walnuts
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- ½ cup butter, melted
- 4 ounces cream cheese, cut into small pieces
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine flour, sugar, salt, spices, and baking soda, and set aside. Combine apples, raisins, walnuts, eggs, butter, cream cheese, and vanilla. Add dry ingredients, a little at a time, to the apple mixture. Stir until just combined. Do not over-mix. Portion batter into muffin papers; sprinkle with topping. Bake at 375 degrees for 20-25 minutes. Makes two dozen muffins.

APPLE CRISP WITH CRUSHED WHEAT TOPPING

- 4 to 5 cups baking apples (peeled and sliced)
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons water
- ⅓ cup all-purpose flour
- ½ cup packed dark brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 4 tablespoons stick butter, chilled
- 1 cup crushed wheat flakes cereal

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Spread apples in an 11x7x2-inch pan coated with cooking spray. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Add water.

Combine flour, brown sugar, and 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon. Cut in butter, using a pastry blender or 2 forks, until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add cereal; mix and sprinkle over apples. Bake for 30 minutes. Top with frozen vanilla yogurt or ice cream if desired.

APPLE CINNAMON SANDWICH

- 4 tablespoons soft butter
- 8 slices cinnamon raisin bread
- ½ cup crunchy peanut butter
- 4 slices mozzarella cheese
- 1 Golden Delicious apple
- 8 slices cheddar cheese

Spread butter on one side of each slice of bread. On the unbuttered side of four slices of bread, spread equal amounts of peanut butter and top with one slice of mozzarella cheese. Place apple slices over the cheese and top each sandwich with 2 slices of cheddar cheese. Top with bread, buttered side out. Preheat a skillet on medium heat. Cook sandwiches 2-3 minutes per side until golden brown and cheese is melted. Makes 4 servings.

Lycoming County Dairy Miss

PA DUTCH APPLE PIE

- 8-10 apples
- 1 cup sugar
- ⅓ cup flour
- Cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons butter

Put 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 tablespoon flour in bottom crust. Slice an apple and place across bottom of crust; top with apple halves; top with sugar and flour mixture.

Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon water, dot with butter and sprinkle with desired amount of cinnamon. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes; reduce to 375 degrees for 45 minutes or until apples are soft. Makes 6-7 servings.

Pie crust:
- 1 cup flour
- ⅓ teaspoon baking powder
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup crisco
- 4-5 tablespoons water

Blend shortening into dry ingredients and sprinkle slowly with 4 to 5 tablespoons water until dough forms a ball. Roll out to desired size.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

Biscuit Dough:
- 2 cups flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons butter
- ¾ cup milk
- Apples
- Cinnamon
- Butter
- Sugar
- Vanilla
- 1 egg

Make baking powder biscuit dough with above ingredients by sifting flour then measure, add salt, baking powder, and sift again. Cut in butter gradually, add milk and make into soft dough. Roll dough to ¼-inch thick. Cut into 4-inch squares, place apple (pared and cored) in the center of square. Sprinkle with butter, sugar, and cinnamon. Draw four corners of dough together, press edge closely, prick with fork. Add 1 cup hot water in baking pan. Bake to medium brown in 350 degrees for about 35 minutes. Serve hot with sweetened milk made by beating 1 egg in milk, adding sugar to taste and vanilla or with vanilla ice cream.

GERMAN APPLE CAKE

- 3 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 cups chopped peeled tart apples
- ¾ cup chopped pecans

Frosting:
- 1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, softened
- 2 teaspoons butter, softened
- 2 cups confectioners' sugar

In a large mixing bowl, beat the eggs, sugar, oil, and vanilla. Combine the flour, cinnamon, baking soda and salt; add to egg mixture and mix well. Fold in apples and nuts. Pour into a greased 13x9x2-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the center comes out clean. Cool on a wire rack.

In a small mixing bowl, beat cream cheese and butter. Add confectioners' sugar, beating until smooth. Spread over cake. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 12-16 servings.

COUNTRY APPLE COBBLER

- 1⅓ cups sugar, divided
- ¼ cup water
- 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 6 cups thinly sliced peeled tart apples (about 5 medium)
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup butter, melted
- ¼ cup milk
- 1½ cups (6 ounces) shredded cheddar cheese
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- Whipped topping, optional

In a large saucepan, combine 1 cup sugar, water, tapioca, and cinnamon. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Remove from the heat; stir in the apples until coated. Pour into a greased 8-inch baking dish; set aside.

In a small bowl, combine the flour, baking powder, salt, and remaining sugar. Stir in butter and milk just until moistened. Fold in cheese and walnuts. Sprinkle over apple mixture. Bake at 375 degrees for 30-35 minutes or until filling is bubbly. Serve with whipped topping if desired. Makes 6-8 servings.

MINI APPLE TURNOVERS

- 1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, softened
- ¾ cup butter, softened
- 1 egg, separated
- 3 tablespoons cold water, divided
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 7 cups thinly sliced peeled tart apples (about 6 medium)
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
- Additional sugar, optional
- Vanilla ice cream, optional

In a mixing bowl, beat cream cheese and butter until smooth. Refrigerate the egg white. Beat egg yolk and 2 tablespoons water into cream cheese mixture. Gradually beat in flour until well blended. Shape pastry into a ball. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour.

Meanwhile, in a large skillet, toss apples with sugar and cinnamon. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 8-10 minutes or until apples are tender. Remove from the heat.

Turn the pastry onto a lightly floured surface. Roll to ⅛-inch thickness; cut into 4-inch circles. Top each circle with apple mixture. Brush edges of pastry with water; fold pastry over filling and seal edges well. In a small bowl, whisk egg white and remaining water; brush over pastry. Sprinkle with additional sugar if desired.

Place on greased baking sheets.

Featured Recipe

Apples rise to the top of the class when it comes to functional benefits. Recent studies show apples help reduce the risks of heart disease and certain cancers, as well as improve lung function and lower cholesterol.

Apples are also fat free, with no cholesterol or sodium. But keep the peel on — two thirds of an apple's fiber, as well as many antioxidants are found in the peel.

Apples help consumers create one-of-a-kind, yet comforting meals at home. Here is a tasty dessert from Ella Zimmerman. It appears in the "Recipes from the Heart of Union County." The cookbook benefits children's special needs. More about this cookbook compile by horse and buggy Mennonites will appear in an upcoming issue of Lancaster Farming.

APPLE PIE BARS

Crust:
- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 cup shortening
- 4 egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 8-10 tablespoons cold water

Filling:
- 7 cups finely chopped, peeled apples
- 2 cups sugar
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- Dash nutmeg

Glaze:
- 1 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine flour, salt, and baking powder. Cut in shortening. Whisk egg yolks, lemon juice, and water together and gradually add to flour mixture, tossing with a fork until dough forms a ball.

Divide in half and chill 30 minutes. Roll out one portion of dough to fit 15x10x1-inch baking pan. Press pastry onto bottom and up sides of pan. Trim even with top edge. In a bowl, toss apples, sugar, flour, cinnamon, and nutmeg: spread over crust. Roll out remaining pastry to fit top of pan and place over filling. Slit top. Bake at 375 degrees for 45-50 minutes or until browned. Cool. Combine glaze ingredients and drizzle over bars.

Communicating Priorities For The New School Year

Back into school clothes and school routines bring mixed emotions for most children and parents alike.

Saying goodbye to what may have been more relaxed summer days can be difficult, but there is something to be said about having a routine in life. Routines offer stability and consistency that are so important, especially for young children.

Being able to stick with and develop positive habits can give us a sense of order and benefit us in all areas of our lives for the rest of our lives. However, allowing routines to take over, causing us to miss those unexpected moments of joy in life is something that we should be mindful of.

For our family, taking the "first day of school picture" under the pear tree by our mailbox signaled the start of a new school year. As I reflect on that stack of pictures, I remember the morning rush and homework battles. More importantly, those snapshots cause me to pause and reflect on how quickly time goes by.

Time not only passes quickly, but it is also very precious. Learning to make the most of each day is something many of us say we strive for. Often somewhere between what we say we want and what actually happens, we get caught up in the pace of life that keeps us from making the most of our days.

Teachers have been busy setting their goals for the school year. They have spent time planning the path they need to take to reach these goals.

How often do we spend the same time setting goals for what we want to happen in our families? Isn't the time at home as important as time in school?

I encourage you, as your family enters a new school year; to reflect on what it is you want to do as a family. Spend some time together, setting goals and reviewing schedules. As you meet, keep in mind these three "D's." First, decide what is important to your family. Next, what things can you delete from your routine and schedule in order to have more time for what is really important? Finally, remind yourselves that you are a team.

As a team, decide how you can delegate work. Remember more hands will get jobs done quicker, leaving more time for making the most of each day.

As you set the course for your family, remember to take some time to talk with your child's teachers and learn what their goals are for your child this school year. Continue this communication throughout the school year. Share your family's goals as well. A team approach communicates the value you place on school to your child and their teachers.

My boys no longer pose for those "first day of school" pictures and our pear tree is no longer standing. But the memories of those school years remain a part of each of us. Many of the things that I allowed to take up my time during those precious years really were not important.

What was important were the friendships that my children established, relationships with teachers and club leaders, new experiences, their excitement in learning, their growing independence in all areas of life and the times we spent together as a family.

What is important for you and your children? I urge you to use the hours so many others and I wish we had back; to spend time doing what your family finds valuable this school year.

Enjoy those moments of joy when they occur and allow time in your days so you can.

Early American Salesman's Samples Are 'Heritage In Miniature'

GEIGERTOWN (Berks Co.) — During the early 1800s settler headed west crossing the Smokey and Appalachian Mountains to reach American's western frontier, making their own practical items and household needs. These artisans or skilled craftsmen became our first real businesses and industry. Some of these colonial craftsmen were furniture-makers.

Based on the early furniture-maker's practice of salesman's samples, "Heritage in Miniature" is a concept developed by craftsman, Don Levengood. The quarter-scale antiques and salesman's samples can be found at the 27th Hay Creek Festival to be conducted at the historical Joanna Furnace Iron Plantation on Sept. 5 to Sept. 7.

Levengood began this tradition of miniatures by following the models of the early settlers. With so many small, isolated farms, the traveling salesman was welcomed wherever he went, not only for his product or service but also as a source of news. Rather than carrying heavy furniture from place to place, the early furniture-makers used small examples of their full-sized pieces to show to their customers. Using miniatures allowed the salesman to display with greater ease a larger variety of his items to potential customers. These models later became known as salesman's samples.

Replicating the salesman's samples, "Heritage in Miniature" are quarter-scale antiques that Levengood creates by using sketches, drawings, molding profiles, and other dimensional information to reduce each piece to exact quarter size. From there the actual crafting begins, using only old pine for stability and appearance. All joinery, tunings, feet, moldings, and finishes are faithfully reproduced to create an authentic quarter-scale antique.

Each piece is individually documented, numbered, photographed, and the information is kept on file for future reference. Levengood also reproduces any primitive of customer's choice, and each piece will receive the same numbering and documentation process.

More than 75 authentic Early American Craftsmen will be demonstrating the American life at the Hay Creek Festival. Blacksmithing, broom making, felting, glassblowing, papermaking, soap making, woodcarving, wooden rakes, wood pipe drilling, rug weaving, and tape looming will be demonstrated in the Early American Craft area of the festival.

Joanna Furnace is located on route 10, three miles north of Morgantown. The Hay Creek Festival gates open each day rain or shine at 7 a.m. from Friday, Sept. 5 to Sunday, Sept. 7, with the main attractions from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Parking is free and admission is $5 on Friday and $7 on Saturday and Sunday; children 12 and under are free.

Levengood will be introducing a 'limited edition' miniature flax spinning wheel at one-quarter scale based on an original 1864 Berks County wheel from a private collection in Oley. After extensive drawings to scale, the same design was accomplished at one-third scale and presented to the White House for display on the Christmas tree in 1999.

Started 1975, the Hay Creek Valley Historical Association acquired the 26 acres historic Joanna Furnace Iron Plantation in 1979 and has grown from nearly one hundred members to today approximately 1,200 annual and lifetime members. Receiving state and national recognition for the volunteer efforts and annual student archaeology program, the Hay Creek Valley Historical Association each July hosts 50 gifted students from Twin Valley and Owen J. Roberts School Districts. For more information, contact HCVHA at (610) 286-0388 or go to www.haycreek.org.

Royal Fruit Cake

Cream together:
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup butter, soften, not melted
1 egg
Add:
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
Mix alternately:
2 cups flour
1 cup milk

Pour in 9x13-inch cake pan. Spread 3½ cups frozen or fresh fruit on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes.
Glaze:
1½ cup confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons cream or milk
Butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter in pan, add cream and sugar. Stir well. Take off heat and add vanilla. Spread on cake while cake is still warm.

ANSWER — Rosanna Witmer, Millerstown, sent in this recipe for B&G sandwich topppers to use on sandwiches, pizza, and nachos.

Pickled Sweet Peppers

Fill pint or jelly jars with diced sweet peppers. Boil together for syrup:
1 cup water
1 cup vinegar
1 cup sugar

Make enough syrup to fill jars. Hot water bath for 10 minutes after water is boiling.

ANSWER — Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, sent in this recipe in request for using cheese.

My Own Baked Ziti

1 pound box ziti

Boil 6-quarts salted water until just tender. Drain, rinse, and set aside.
1 pound Italian sausage links
2 jars Marinara sauce
15-ounces ricotta cheese (do not use cottage cheese)
1 pound shredded mozzarella cheese
½ cup grated romano cheese

Fry sausage until cooked. When cooled, slice into bite-sized pieces. Place into pasta along with one jar of sauce. Toss until evenly mixed.

In a bowl, mix ricotta and shredded mozzarella. Toss into sausage/ziti mixture. Add 2 cups sauce. Mix until blended. Place in a large baking dish. Pour the remaining suace over the top and sprinkle with romano cheese. Cover with foil and bake in 350-degree oven for 30-45 minutes. Insert knife into center to check that it is heated through. Remove from oven and let set 10 minutes before serving.

Dutch Apies Cake

3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup sour milk

Combine sugar and flour. Cut into shortening. Dissolve the soda in the sour milk and add to first mixture. Roll dough about ¾-inch on floured board and cut with cookie cutter or in squares. Bake in 400-degree oven 10 minutes. Sprinkle with sugar.

Thanks to Faye for also sending these recipes, which she writes, is from The Willows Restaurant, Lancaster. It's always interesting to see how many different recipes exist for the same item.

AP'S Christmas Cookies

1 pound butter
1 pound sugar
4 eggs
1 teaspoon baking soda (scant)
Flour to stiffen

Make four small rolls of dough. Place in refrigerator until very cold. Roll out and cut cookies with your favorite mold. Bake about seven minutes at 400 degrees.

Dutch Apies Cake

3 tablespoons shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup sour milk

Combine ingredients. Cut with cookie cutter. Bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees. Sprinkle with sugar.

ANSWER — Helen Spencer, Hopewell, N.J., lost her shoofly recipe from the Shartlesville Inn, which we published earlier. Also, Margaret Grieff, Sidman, wanted to know the best type of molasses to use in cookies and shoo fly pies. Thanks to Elisabeth Keener, Chambersburg, for sending the following information and a recipe: Elisabeth writes: "My father's family was from Watsontown, Northumberland County. Her mother's family was from White Haven, Luzerne County. Both these counties are more of the 'fancy' Pennsylvania German background (those of Lutheran and Reformed churches) in contrast to 'plain' Pennsylvania Germans ofo the Anabaptist traditions, who are more prevalent in the south central part of Pennsylvania. Although these two groups share much of the same culture and foods, recipes are different, and shoofly pie is no exception. My almost 97-year-old aunt (of very clear mind) sent me a newspaper article about shoofly pie, heavily quoting food historian William Woys Weaver, author of "Pennsylvania Dutch Country Cooking." Weaver states, 'It is not shoofly pie unless it is made with molasses.' Unfortunately in southcentral Pennsylvania, most people call corn syrup molasses, so the shoofly pie is totally different from what I have always eaten. My aunt told me many years ago the crumbs for the pies were always white. The recipe I have is in my great grandmother's handwriting, which calls the pie Molasses Crumb Pie."

Elisabeth suspects the Shartlesville Inn is more closely related to the shoofly pies of northeastern Pennsylvania than those in the south central area.

She writes that Weaver was able to trace molasses crumbs pies (a.k.a. shoofly pies) back to the centennial celebration in Philadelphia, where it is appropriately called Centennial Pie. It became shoofly pie only after reaching the Pennsylvania German region.

Elisabeth doesn't know why corn syrup was renamed molasses in the recipe. Her Mennonite mother-in-law gave her a copy of the "Mennonite Community Cookbook," when Elisabeth married her son 37 years ago. She uses it frequently, but realized something was horribly wrong when recipes for Montgomery Pie, Lemon Cake-Pie, Vanilla Pie, and Walnut Custard Pie named molasses in the ingredients. Elisabeth writes, "Yuk!" But, those from a different region will probably react differently.

Shoo Fly Pie

2 8-inch unbaked pie shells
Crumbs:
2 cups sifted flour
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda

Stir together crumb ingredients. Cut in ½ cup shortening. Set aside.
Filling:
1 cup molasses (Br'er Rabbit or Grandma's are good varieties)
1 egg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon baking soda

Stir together. For a shoofly pie with a wet bottom, divide liquid into each pie shell. Sprinkle with crumbs.

For a shoofly pie with a "moist zone," put about half the crumbs in the bottom of each pie shell. Pour filling on top of crumbs, and top filling with remaining crumbs.

For a more cake-like pie, mix crumbs and filling, and pour into pie shells.

Bake at 375 degrees for 18-22 minutes or until golden brown. Remove to wire racks to cool. Serve with ice cream if desired. Makes 2 dozen.

APPLE CRUNCH

Place 4 cups pared sliced apple in a one-quart casserole. Combine ¼ cup orange juice, non-caloric liquid sweetener equal to ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Pour over apples and toss.

Combine 1 cup graham cracker crumbs with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Sprinkle over apples cover with foil and bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Uncover and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

SUMMERTIME APPLE PIE

1 3-ounce package lemon-flavored gelatin
1¼ cup boiling water
1 to 2 cans apple pie filling or 2 cups fresh apple
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 9-inch graham cracker crumb crust
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup shredded sharp American cheese
½ cup whipping cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; chill until partialy set.

Combine pie filling or fresh apple, cinnamon, and lemon peel. Reserve ¼ cup of the gelatin and stir remainder into apple mixture; pour into crust.

For "Meringue" fold reserved gelatin, sugar, and shredded cheese into whipped cream. Spread over pie. Chill until firm.

Consuming Thoughts

Today's consumers look for foods that have great taste and good nutrition. Pears measure up on both counts. High amounts of natural sugars, fructose, and glucose are present in pears. At the same time, a 166 gram pear, with skin, provides 2.32 grams of crude fiber of which 41 percent is pectin.

Another very important nutrient is potassium, and the same 166 gram pear contains 208 milligrams. Potassium is necessary for maintaining heartbeat, muscle contraction, nerve transmission, and carbohydrate and protein metabolism. With only 98 calories in a 166 gram pear, this fruit provides a calorie-light, delicious, and healthy snack.

Pears are grown by Pennsylvania growers but 98 percent of the nation's pear crop is produced in the West Coast states of Oregon, Washington, and California.

There are many pear varieties but only eight specific kinds of USA Pears are usually available in most stores during the year. Each variety has an identifiable shape, color, and unique flavor of its own. Learn to identify and appreciate each for its particular character and great taste!

Pears are one of the few fruits that do not mature well if allowed to ripen on the tree. As a result, they are picked before they are ripe. Then they are carefully packed, stored and shipped, usually still unripened. This is the reason you will often find firm, unripened pears when you buy them.

Let them stand a few days at room temperature. As they ripen, changes occur on the inside of the fruit that greatly increase the sugar and juice content. Don't always count on color changes to let you know when your pears are best for delicious eating. Some varieties will change color and others do not.

Pears can be used any way you would use an apple. Here's a new per recipe for you to try.

QUICK PEAR KUCHEN

1 (29-ounce) can pears OR 1½ pounds fresh pears
1 package hot roll mix
¾ cup warm water
1 egg
1 tablespoon melted butter
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon

Peel and slice fresh pears or drain canned pears and slice, if halves are used. Prepare roll mix with water and egg as directed on package. Spread in greased 13x9x2-inch pan. Brush with melted butter.

Arrange pear slices in rows over dough, pressing in slightly. Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over pears. Let rise until doubled, 30 to 45 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees 40 to 45 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 12 servings.

Harford Fair Sundae Serves About 600

Take 13 three-gallon tubs of ice cream flavors such as panda paws, maple walnut, peanut butter cup, strawberry, cookie dough, and America's favorite vanilla. Pile on the chocolate syrup. Add strawberries, bananas, cookie crumbs, sprinkles, caramel, M & M's and peanuts. Top with whipped cream and a cherry. You've good a giant ice cream sundae ready to serve to fair goers. This complimentary sundae was served at the Harford Fair by the Susquehanna County Dairy Princess Shana Mack and Dairy Ambassadors Amanda Miner, Abbey Puzo, Alyssa Sprout and Ashley Franklin, and Dairy Maids Karin Mowry and Karley Mosier.

Pumpkin Pie Baking Contest Announced

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Pumpkin pie bakers should take note that they can enter their home-baked pies in the annual pie-baking contest at the Pennsylvania German Folklife Festival on Saturday, Sept. 13, at the Schaeffer Farm in Schaefferstown. Pies must be taken to the festival information booth by 11 a.m. on the 13th with a copy of the complete recipe that lists all ingredients (including pie crust) as well as all preparation steps. First-, second-, and third-place winners will each receive a medal and a free, one-year family membership in Historic Schaefferstown, Inc.

The Pennsylvania German Folklife Festival is a two-day event conducted on Saturday, Sept. 13 and Sunday, Sept. 14 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Visitors will enjoy 18th and 19th century crafts, cooking, baking, and apple butter making, cider pressing, rock crushing, saw milling, live musical entertainment, free tours of the Schaeffer House, and much more. All this is included in the $5 person admission fee. Children under 11 with an accompanying adult are free. Discounted two-day admission passes available. For more information, call (717) 949-2244.

The Festival is part of Historic Schaefferstown, Incorporated (HSI), a nonprofit educational organization whose mission is to collect, preserve, study, and disseminate of the history and folk culture of the Pennsylvania Germans in South Central Pennsylvania, with particular focus on Schaefferstown, Pennsylvania.

Schaefferstown is located approximately 20 miles east of Hershey, 25 miles west of Reading, and 19 miles north of Lancaster at the intersection of PA Routes 501, 419, and 897. The Schaeffer Farm is located at 213 S. Carpenter Street (Route 501).

Lone Star Gives Kelly A Wild Ride

Kelly King, 12, recuperates in the hospital after her 4-H calf took her for a wild ride.

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — For kids who have a really tame animal for their 4-H project, Kelly King has some advice: Never attach the rope or halter to your waist.

Last summer, Kelly was preparing her dairy beef calf named Lone Star for the Lancaster County 4-H Fair. The day before the event, Kelly decided to give Lone Star a bath. She didn't want Lone Star's leather halter to get damaged from water, so she decided to attach a rope to Lone Star.

While making the switch, she tied the halter around her waist to free her hands to attach the rope.

The noise of a distant motor spooked Lone Star. The calf tore off, toppling Kelly and dragging her behind him. Her back scraped across pavement and loose stones. Because the length of the halter was so short, Kelly was so close to the calf that the calf's hooves kicked her again and again in her face and chest. After dragging her for 50 yards, family members halted the calf.

Kelly was covered with blood, and had severe bruising and cuts, especially in the eye area from repeated hoof kicks. Although Kelly had a slight concussion, she did not have internal injuries.

Instead of showing her calf at the 4-H Fair, Kelly ended up in the hospital for three days. A plastic surgeon carefully stitched the damage to her face. Today, Kelly has a slight facial scar, which she hopes will fade with time.

It was a disappointment for Kelly not to be able to show her 4-H calf, but the incident turned out to help one of Kelly's friends, whose calf was sick and couldn't compete in the fair. Kelly's friend showed Lone Star, and took first place for showmanship.

The calf was sold at the 4-H Fair, but Kelly will never forget Lone Star and her wild ride.

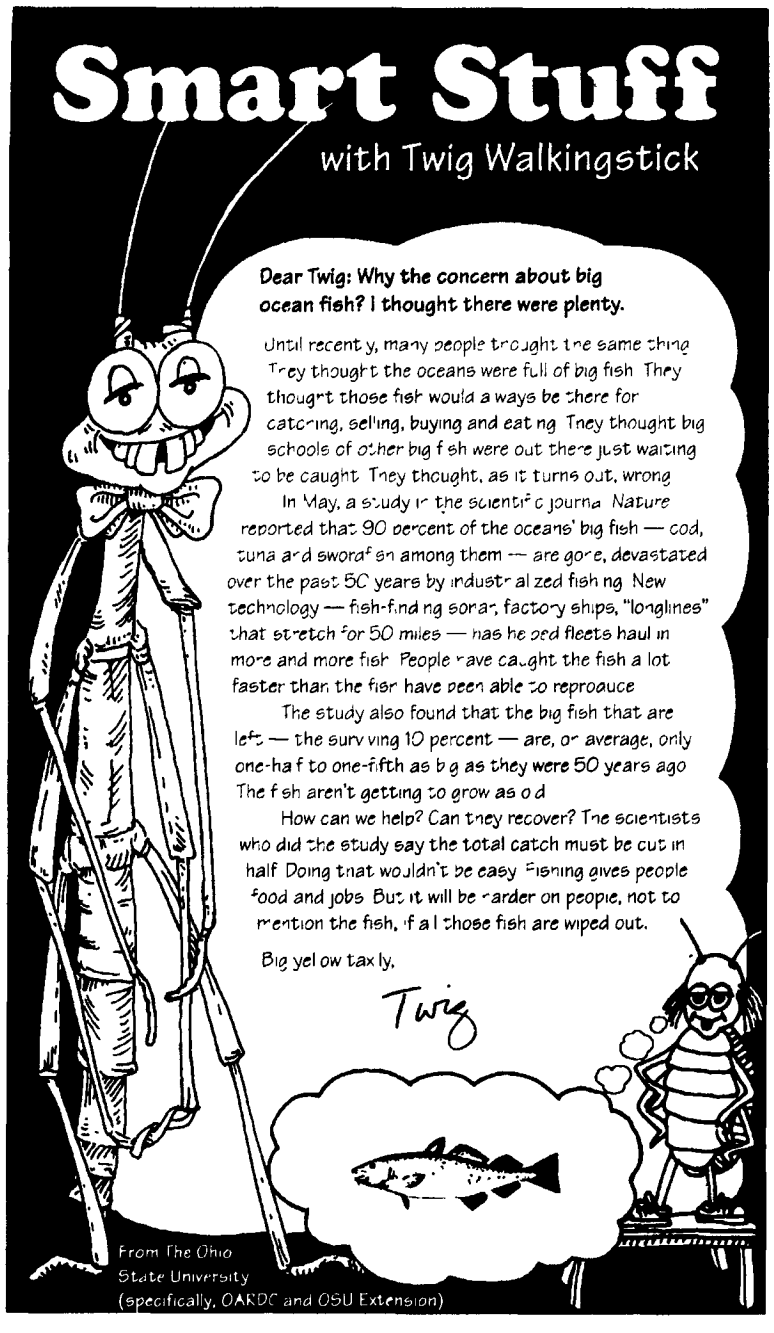
Since then, Kelly has had more opportunities in livestock events. Two weeks ago, Kelly tied for first place in the junior division for dairy judging at the Chester County Holstein Day. The year before, Kelly won a free calf in a drawing sponsored by the Chester County Holstein Field Day.

Colton King sings country during a 4-H talent show. The 10-year-old placed third, singing an Allan Jackson song, "That'd Be All Right," while competing against 13-year-olds. Read about Colton's family on page B2, and about his sister's wild ride on this page.

Kelly King holds the halter of her 4-H dairy beef calf Owen, which replaces Lone Star.

Kelly's brother, Colton, also enjoys raising dairy beef for 4-H. He wants to take over the family farm someday.

Kelly holds Chocolate Chip, one of several puppies on her family's farm. Turn to page B2 to read more about the King family.



Smart Stuff
with Twig Walkingstick
Dear Twig: Why the concern about big ocean fish? I thought there were plenty.
Until recently, many people thought the same thing. They thought the oceans were full of big fish. They thought those fish would always be there for catching, selling, buying and eating. They thought big schools of other big fish were out there just waiting to be caught. They thought, as it turns out, wrong.
In May, a study in the scientific journal Nature reported that 90 percent of the oceans' big fish — cod, tuna and swordfish among them — are gone, devastated over the past 50 years by industrialized fishing. New technology — fish-finding sonar, factory ships, "longlines" that stretch for 50 miles — has helped fleets haul in more and more fish. People have caught the fish a lot faster than the fish have been able to reproduce.
The study also found that the big fish that are left — the surviving 10 percent — are, on average, only one-half to one-fifth as big as they were 50 years ago. The fish aren't getting to grow as old.
How can we help? Can they recover? The scientists who did the study say the total catch must be cut in half. Doing that wouldn't be easy. Fishing gives people food and jobs. But it will be harder on people, not to mention the fish, if all those fish are wiped out.

QUESTION — In Williamsville, New York, outside of Buffalo, there is a former gas station inimart of which Polly E. Mathys, Spring City, Pa. is part owner. She writes: "We are selling the ground, and the building will in all likelihood be torn down. In this building are store-type items such as display shelves, a walk-in cooler with five glass door fronts, and five 6-foot-long chest coolers (you know the kind you reach into in the store to get your Popsicle or whatnot). The buyer of the ground doesn't want them and neither do we. But rather than get a certified refrigerant remover to come in and then trash all this equipment, we're looking for a food bank, a farm, a produce stand, or whoever to come to Williamsville and claim these items. None of this stuff is new, but to our knowledge, it all worked the last time the electricity was on." Call Polly at (610) 495-6185 for more information.

QUESTION — Diane Gray, 70 Damascus Rd., Blandon, PA 19510, wants information and bottles from the former Lebanon or Lebanon Valley Dairy.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerner, Wysox, writes that some time ago she had clipped an answer in this column from Joyce Raubenstine who told how to make creams from aloe vera. The instructions were unclear, and she asks if someone can tell her the exact amount of aloe vera to use. The directions she has are as follows: To prepare a herb ointment or salve, crush the leaves of the aloe vera and mix with four parts melted fat (lard or shortening) and one part dry white wine. Heat gently for 20 minutes. Cool slightly and strain.

Shirley writes that her husband's chronic back problem was aggravated during haymaking. She rubbed aloe vera leaves on his back, and it helped instantly. He was amazed. It was a sloppy procedure, so they'd like to make the salve if possible.

Shirley adds a bit of humor by writing that she can't boil water without a 3x5 card, "so you can see my problem with the aloe vera (instructions)."

QUESTION Marie Hixson, Crystal Spring, wants to know how to grow wild rice. They live on a farm with some wet areas that she believes would be suitable for growing rice. Anyone know where she can find information?

QUESTION — Warren Glidewell, Bloomsburg, wants to know where to find Flemish giant rabbits in a fawn color.

ANSWER — Janet Martin, Narvon, writes that Dick Herring's request for railroad ties can often be found at local nurseries and garden centers. If they don't have them, they can probably tell you where you can find them.

ANSWER — Mike White wanted to know what to do to deter birds from pulling up his corn. Thanks to Rhoda Sauder who writes that birds won't pull up corn that doesn't taste good. Treat the seeds with Isotox available at seed stores. In addition to protecting seeds from insects, it also tastes bad. This methods works for pheasant and other birds, Sauder write.

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions.

Thawing Foods

If all the proper steps to freeze foods safely are used and then it is defrosted at temperatures that foster bacteria growth, hours of work will be in vain. Freezing temperatures will prevent the growth of bacteria; they do not kill the bacteria. When the food temperature rises above 40F, bacteria can grow at levels to cause food borne illness.

Grabbing a package of meat or chicken and thawing it fast in hot water or taking food out of the freezer and letting it on the counter to thaw all day while you are at work are not safe practices. According to the USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline, foods should never be thawed or even stored on the counter, or defrosted in hot water. Food left unrefrigerated is not at a safe temperature. Even though the center of the package may still be frozen as it thaws on the counter, the outer layer of the food is in the "Danger Zone", between 40 and 140 Ftemperatures at which bacteria multiply rapidly.

"When defrosting frozen foods, it is best to plan ahead and thaw food in the refrigerator where food will remain at a safe, constant temperature at 40F or below.

The safe ways to defrost food is in the refrigerator, in cold water, and in the microwave oven.

Refrigerator thawing requires planning ahead because of the lengthy time involved. A large frozen item like a turkey requires at least a day (24 hours) for every 5 pounds of weight. Even a pound of ground meat or boneless chicken breasts requires a full day to thaw.

Take these variable into account when thawing foods in the refrigerator: Some areas of the refrigerator may keep the food colder than other areas. Food placed in the coldest part will require longer defrosting time. Food takes longer to thaw in a refrigerator set at 35 F than one set at 40 F. Ground meat and poultry thawed in the refrigerator should remain useable for an additional day or two before cooking; red meat will remain useable for an additional three days.

Cold water thawing is faster than using the refrigerator, but requires more attention. The food must be in a leak-proof package or plastic bag. If the bag leaks, bacteria from the air or surrounding environment could be introduced into the food. Also, meat tissue can also absorb water like a sponge resulting in a watery product. The bag should be submerged in cold tap water, changing the water every 30 minutes so it continues to thaw. Small packages of meat or poultry, about a pound, may defrost in an hour or less. A 3- to 4-pound package may take 2 to 3 hours to thaw. For whole turkeys, estimate about 30 minutes per pound. If thawed completely, the food must be cooked immediately. Foods thawed by the cold water method should be cooked before refreezing.

When food is defrosted in the microwave oven, plan to cook it immediately after thawing because some areas of the food may become warm and begin to cook during the defrosting process. Holding partially cooked food is not recommended because any bacteria present would not have been destroyed and may have reached ideal temperatures for bacteria to grow. Foods thawed in the microwave should be cooked before refreezing.

If you have food preservation questions, a home economist is available to answer questions on Wednesdays 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Rd. Rm.1, Lancaster, PA 17601.

At Roanoke in January, Edwards, will enter the Miss Virginia Association of Fairs Scholarship Pageant with her platform of working with disabled children.

Disabled Children Is Platform For Miss Rockingham County Fair Queen

GAY BROWNLEE
Virginia Coorespondent

HARRISONBURG, Va. — Heather Edwards, 19, Senior Miss Rockingham County Fair, has a heart for disabled children. That is why the topic of disabled children was her platform for the Miss Rockingham County Fair Pageant, where six young women competed for the honor.

She titled her platform "Look Their Way," in relation to the Peer Tutor Program at the Spotswood High School, where throughout her junior and senior years, she devoted several hours a day to tutoring disabled children.

With Edwards, the royal line of Rockingham County Fair queens was represented in Hannah Armentrout, Junior Miss Rockingham County Fair, and Linda Shifflett, Mrs. Rockingham County Fair. The trio worked with a strong commitment greeting fairgoers with bright, sunny smiles.

On Aug. 3 in the big exhibit hall, they and the other contestants had been judged during interviews, evening gown, and casual wear competitions. They had to speak briefly on an issue that was meaningful to themselves.

Like the three musketeers they attended various scheduled events together, especially all the livestock shows. They granted interviews to the broadcast media and showed gracious hospitality to thousands of visitors. That was the real test of their sincerity, ability, and fair knowledge.

Edwards said the duties were demanding, but fun. "We were always fashionably late," she said, grinning.

The young woman had not realized the extent of hard work and dedication required to hold a county fair, but seeing it unfold day by day was an eye-opening experience that doubled her appreciation for the organizers, workers, and record keepers.

When asked her reasons for participating, Edwards said: 'I wanted to have a good experience for my own self-confidence."

Besides the gifts of a crown, trophy, and sash, her cash award was $500 and she has a commitment at Roanoke in January 2004 to participate in the Miss Virginia Association of Fairs Scholarship Pageant.

Edwards is employed at the Cloud Nine Day Spa after graduating in 2003 from the Virginia School of Massage.

"I want to incorporate massage therapy and disabled children," she said. "The sense of touch (to disabled children) is so important."

With this goal in mind at the fair, she encountered a number of disabled citizens and to their delight, interacted with them comfortably.

Hannah Armentrout wanted to participate in the junior division to have a better opportunity to learn what really goes on at the fair. She was interested to see what past queens have done, she said.

The 14-year old daughter of Kent and Karen Armentrout, Linville, said although she has always been involved with the fair, particularly with her dad's vegetable exhibits, by being a junior miss, she learned so much more about the event than she knew earlier.

The cash award for junior miss was $100.

Linda Shifflett, Bridgewater, the wife of Jay Shifflett and mother of four children, has always been a supporter of the fair. After six days she, too came away with a broader appreciation for behind-the-scenes activities that visitors who just come for a good time, seldom if ever, see.

Shifflett reported the Mrs. Rockingham Fair competition had 11 contestants. One question she was asked to answer had to do with qualities that are most valuable to a marriage. She named, "honesty and dependability."

She believes firmly that a husband and wife must be "true friends together."

Her older children were credited for their tremendous support during the week-long fair. Otherwise, spending every day at the fair would not have been easy.

"My older children helped with the younger ones," she said.

Judges for the pageant were Garry Viar, Lynchburg; Valerie Lucas, Shenandoah; Kimberly Bright, Harrisonburg; Stanford Moats, Waynesboro; and Sam Perkins, Staunton.

music and recently competed in Lancaster County's 4-H talent show.

Since they live on a dairy farm, it seems natural for the King children to show dairy animals. Their dad is considering it very carefully.

He said, "I've always kept a closed herd. I don't like taking animals out and bringing them back (which exposes the herd to viruses)."

Although the Kings aren't big vacation people, when they do go away on vacation, they tend to visit other farming operations.

Mary Lou said, "On our anniversary, we visited some big farms in the western part of the state, and participated in a Monsanto bus tour to visit Michigan farms."

Some women are appalled that an anniversary celebration would be work-related, but Mary Lou said, "I enjoy seeing how other farm families live. It's a chance to get ideas on how to improve our farm."

Even the best-laid plans don't always turn out as expected. This week, it started raining again when their hay was ready to bale.

"Part of farming is taking the good with the bad," Mary Lou said. "We are blessed to be able to farm. We give God the credit — we couldn't be successful without him."

Conference Set For March

Irish Brothers, Genetic Researcher On Slate

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co) — This year's Pennsylvania Forage and Grazing Conference will take place March 5 and 6 at the Holiday Inn in Grantville

This conference has something for forage producers and graziers at all levels of experience The conference is sponsored jointly by the PFGC, the Pennsylvania Grazing Research and Education Center Pennsylvania's Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative, and Penn State Extension

The first day of the conference kicks off with brothers John and Tom Roche John works as a grazing researcher/consultant in New Zealand, and Tom manages the home dairy farm in Ireland These brothers have recently been exploring the possibilities of starting a grazing dairy here in the US Over the course of the conference they will discuss "hands on" experiences as well as differences, similarities, and opportunities of grass farming in the US and around the world

Other talks on the first day will include topics such as animal genetics for grazing (sure to stimulate discussion) effectiveness of equipment to speed hay drying, keeping and using accurate farm records, large rectangular bale storage and marketing and health concerns of animals on pasture

Dr Steve Washburn from North Carolina State University will be leading the discussion on animal genetics for grazing The evening of the first day will include discussion sessions between attendees and speakers

The second day of the conference starts with a look at grazing and family life, impact of the Farm Bill and new regulations on forage and grazing farms and pasture maintenance Presentations include recognizing the challenges of grassfed beef farmer health concerns, and farm liability The day continues with a presentation by the Roche brothers on grazing opportunities in the Northeast The conference will conclude with a brief wrap up session and awarding of door prizes.

Producers will give many of the presentations during the two day conference

The PFGC will conduct its annual reception and awards program Wednesday evening followed by informal discussions with the day's presenters

The conference will also include a trade show, with com-

OLEY (Berks Co) — Nevin Mast has been crossbreeding Holsteins and Jerseys for about 10 years

I just like the cross so well the dairyman said during a pasture walk on his organically certified farm last September

Mast hosted about a dozen farmers who were interested in seeing his grazing operation Joining the group was Mena Hautau, Berks County extension agent and Dr Steve Washburn, a dairy researcher from North Carolina State University

Grass and hay are the main source of feed for the 50 cows on Mast's 110 acre farm He supplements milking cows with 12 14 pounds of grain per day Heifers between the age of four months and their first calving receive no grain

Advantages of the Holstein/Jersey cross include easier breeding and calving hybrid vigor and greater survivability, according to Mast and Washburn

The biggest gains are in the survivability traits said Washburn who studies the benefits of crossbreeding in dairy herds He predicted that crossbreeds will have an increasing impact on commercial dairy production in the future

Washburn is one of the speakers slated for the upcoming Pennsylvania Forage and Grazing Conference scheduled for March 5 and 6 in Grantville

A typical average first conception rate for purebred Holsteins when using artificial insemination is between 30 and 40 percent In crossbreds that number can reach nearly 50 percent according to Washburn

Washburn said dairy farmers need to have a plan when it comes to crossbreeding The plan should include research ing the fertility of the daughters of bulls used in the cross breeding program and knowing the bulls production data While hardiness and reproductive traits are important production must be a primary goal

As Washburn put it, "Milk still pays the bills"

In crossbred cows, production levels tend toward the higher producing breed he noted

While Jersey and Holstein genetics make up the main part of the gene pool on Mast's farm he also enjoys experimenting with different types of crossbreeding For example Mast said he recently purchased a White Park bull to breed to some of his heifers

Nevin Mast discusses his crossbreeding program during a pasture walk on his Berks County dairy farm last September. Dr. Steve Washburn, one of the presenters set to speak at the upcoming PFGC conference, joined the group of graziers on Mast's farm.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co) — Project Grass is on the move

Last year the grassroots grassland management group expanded to include every region of Pennsylvania and has been at work developing new programs to foster grass-based farming and conservation practices in the state

Last November marked the first-ever Project Grass Conference More than 100 people attended the two-day event at State College

The conference included presentations on the history of Project Grass — first formed in Southwest Pennsylvania in 1980 research findings on the economic and environmental benefits of livestock grazing

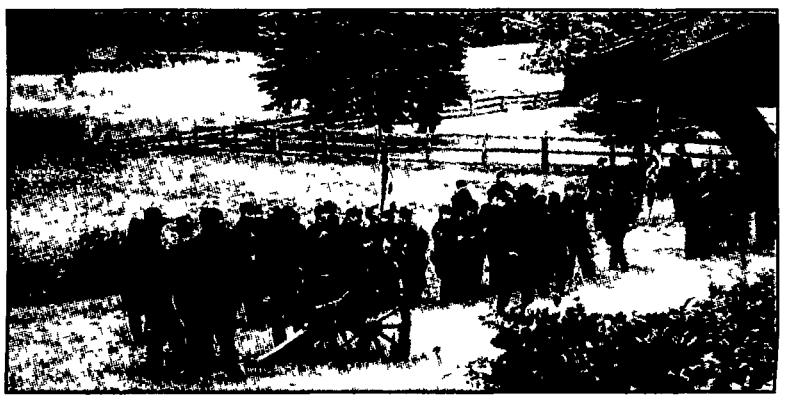
Living history participants take time out from the busy activities for a chat.

Taking a stroll through the village.



Ready for the battle.

Living History Participants Relive The Past

This gal in the straw hat and pantaloons looks as though she just stepped from the pages of a history book.

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — "Living history is not just about firing guns and having mock battles," said Roger Kirwin, director of Old Bedford Village.

"Instead, it's about men, women, and children who want to know what it actually felt like to live during a specific period of time."

On a rainy June weekend at Old Bedford Village, it was the Civil War era.

"This was a romantic period of history," said Carolyn Kegg, a faithful volunteer at the Village. "The people who participate in Living History are families. Everyone gets involved including the children."

They make costumes so authentic that even the fabric is exactly the same as that made in the mid-1800's. Living history participants carry purses, guns, powder flasks, just as they did during the Civil War. On their feet are high button shoes and long stockings. Eyelet trimmed pantaloons peek from beneath long gingham skirts.

If it's raining, they have to lift their skirts to jump the puddles.

"They truly learn how it feels to cook over an open fire in pots and pans used during the Civil War era. Women quickly learn the dangers long sleeves and long dresses pose while cooking over an open flame. They learn what it is like to sleep in a tent on a wet, rainy night," said Roger.

Both those who participate in living history events and the Civil War re-enactors meet at Old Bedford Village the third weekend in June each year.

"This past year we had 420 who portrayed every part of Civil War Era living, from cooking to doctors and surgeons. They did everything from re-enact a Civil War battle to hold a grand ball in the village barn during the evening.

Some of the post popular living history participants at the village were Joseph and Christine Mieczkowski who portray Simon and Margaretta Cameron. A senator from Pennsylvania in 1799, Simon Cameron began his political career when he replaced future president James Buchanan in the Senate. A former Democrat, turned Republican, Cameron had widespread interests in such things as newspapers, banking, canal building, railroad construction, and manufacturing. He served in Lincoln's cabinet.

He was a visitor to the Gettysburg battlefield shortly after hostilities ceased. Later, Cameron was present for the address Lincoln made at the dedication of the National Cemetery in Gettysburg.

Joseph Mieczkowski says he looks so much like Simon Cameron that many people think the old portrait he has of the senator is actually him. Christine, on the other hand, says she does not look that much like Margaretta but enjoys the role anyway.

The costuming and all of the other necessary paraphanallia are purchased through publications such as the Civil War Times and at stores located at all living history events.

Living history enthusiasts haunt antique shops in hopes of finding even more authentic items.

Participants in the living history event attended the Village from California, New England, Ohio, and all parts of Pennsylvania.

Cutting wood for a cooking fire.

Is this Huck Finn or a living history participant? It's difficult to tell the difference.

Lithophanes Coming To Light At Auction

There has always been something magical about lithophanes. For one thing you may have one and not even know it. Unfortunately many people have discarded lithophanes simply because they never held them up to the light. Mostly forgotten, until recently, when a few examples came to auction, collectors are now showing interest. At the James Julia spring lamp and glass auction a variety showed up and did well. Among them a lamp with a five panel lithophane shade that fetched $977.50; a lithophane panel in a holder that sold for $146.00.

Most collectors were initially introduced to lithophanes when they held a Japanese porcelain cup or saucer , to the light, often accidently. Presto ! Like magic an image of a Geisha girl or an erotic figure appeared. These 20th century examples are a far cry from the quality and diversity of subjects made in the 19th century. The same could be said for the German regimental steins, popular with collectors. Held to the light, the image of a soldier and other military subjects appeared.

So what is a lithophane and how does it magically show up against the light ? To make a lithophane, first a wax positive of a subject was carved.

Next a plaster of Paris mold is made of the wax positive and porcelain paste poured into the mold. The lithophane is fired first at a high temperiture. If color is to be used, it is fired again August 17, 2003 WITH ONE PHOTO at a lower temperature. If the carver sharpens the details several times up to thirty molds can be made from a single wax.

The first lithophanes were made in Paris from a process invented by the Baron de Bourgoing in 1827. It was thereafter licensed to potters in England and Germany. None were known to have been made in America.

They were so popular that they were made in about twenty five factories in the 19th century. Not only England and Germany but France, Denmark, Portugal, Belgium and Czechoslovakia made them. By the 1860s they were at the height of their popularity.

Though they were not made in America, popular American subjects were used.

Portraits of famous Americans and American themes, such as Niagara Falls and the Capitol were exported to America. European subjects depicted generals and royalty as well as copies of famous paintings. Among them, Leonardo da Vinci's "Last Supper".

It was the Worcester Grainger factory in England that made the earliest lithophane panels for dinwo decoration, night lights and lamp shades. These are among the scarcest.

They became popular as paneled lamp shades, first with kerosene then early 20th century electric lamps. Five or more panels were used, each carrying out a central subject.

During their heyday lithophanes were used to decorate many objects. There is even a nut cup with the likeness of Admiral George Dewey made around 1899. A lithophane of his likeness is on the bottom. Candle holders, water fonts and pitchers also used lithophanes.

CLUES: No individual lithophane artists are known. Pieces only have the manufacturers name. Reproductions are being made from old molds, and have been since the 1950s.

They are much thicker and lack the delicacy of early molds. Test by holding to a twenty-five watt bulb, as used with early examples. If it doesn't clearly show the image, use a seventy-five watt bulb. The new lithophane panels are made to fit into old lamps August 17, 2003 ADD TWO and plaque holders.

The popular old German Regimental steins, were presented by Germany from 1890-1915, to members of their armed services, with lithophanes of soldiers and military subjects, have long been reproduced. So have the Japanese Satsuma tea sets.

Many American companies are making new lithophanes. Check the internet.

Track Down Antique Trucks, Trolleys At Pennsylvania Trolley Museum

WASHINGTON (Washington Co.) — Truck on down to the "Antique Trucks and Trolleys" event at the Pennsylvania Trolley Museum in Washington on Sunday, Sept. 14 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

See a wide array of vintage trucks displayed by members of the Greater Pittsburgh Chapter of the Antique Truck Club of America (ATCA) as they conduct their 14th Annual Antique Truck Show. The Pittsburgh ATCA Chapter was formed in 1989 and has members bringing trucks from Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, and Maryland.

The antique vehicles date back to the 1920s and will include pickup trucks, moving vans, fire engines, tractor-trailers, and even old buses.

Also, on display will an HO scale train layout provided by the Ohio Valley Modular Railroad Club. Caboose and motor car rides for $1 extra fare. Food and picnic facilities will be available.

Admission is $6 Adults, $5 Seniors (65 and older), and $3.50 Children (2-15). Under 2 are free. Admission includes unlimited 4-mile round-trip trolley rides, guided tour, the photo exhibit On the Car Line, Pittsburgh and Points South, gift shop, and picnic area.

To participate, register your truck. Contact Brenda Bradish at (724) 539-8386.

The Pennsylvania Trolley Museum is easy to find and is located halfway between Wheeling and Pittsburgh. Take I-79 to Exit 41 Meadow Lands or Route 19 to Race Track Road then follow the Trolley Museum signs.

For more information, call (724) 228-9256 or on the web at www.pa-trolley.org.

Life Is Sweet At Bradford County's Dewy Meadows Maple Farm

CAROLYN MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

WARREN CENTER (Bradford Co.) — It's a routine that is as natural to maple producers as the changing of the seasons.

Early in the spring, all producers gather their equipment and head off into the sugarbush, a stand of Sugar Maple trees that, in many cases, have been providing the sweet sap that gets turned into maple syrup for decades.

As the trees are tapped, the sap flows through yards and yards of tubing into a collection bin. The sap is then gathered and brought to the sugar house where a crackling wood fire heats up the sap, removing the water, and yielding a thick, rich amber syrup.

This sweet sign of spring is ever-present at Dewy Meadows Maple Farm, host of the Bradford-Sullivan Forest Landowner's Association spring tour.

While at the farm, visitors had the opportunity to sample "sugar on snow," stir thickened syrup into maple cream, and even gain hands-on experience tapping a tree.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State knows the story is more than simply the flowers and the trees.

The planned Arboretum at Penn State is not just a matter of beautiful gardens and restored woodlands, but a design that can incorporate activities and ideas in a complete educational format for the entire community.

"It's much more than ecological restoration," noted Arboretum Director Dr. Kim Steiner, professor of forest biology.

"At the Arboretum, we will do quite a bit of agriculture, re-

PHILADELPHIA — For years, the artificial surface at Veterans Stadium has beat on football players, resulting in a long list of injuries.

But when the Philadelphia Eagles, one of the stadium's major occupants, begin playing their games at the new Lincoln Financial Field in August, an innovative hybrid field will take the pounding.

The turf at "The Linc" is expected to withstand the wear and tear caused by players and weather just fine — thanks to a grass-reinforcing technique developed by a subsidiary of Lancaster-based Armstrong World Industries.

Customer Service Is Key To Christmas Tree Retail Success

BOALSBURG (Centre Co.) — By using a few fairly simple marketing strategies, Christmas tree growers can seriously boost their profits in selling these aromatic, traditional holiday centerpieces.

Larry Kuhns and his family at Kuhns Tree Farm near State College are willing to demonstrate just how they accomplish that.

Larry, along with wife Marianne and children Joel and Catherine, hosted a tour of their farm Aug. 8 during this year's Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association summer conference.

About 255 people attended the two-day event.

Kuhns, a professor of ornamental horticulture at Penn State, purchased the farm and began growing Christmas trees in the early 1980s. Since then, the business has grown to annual sales of 4,000 trees from the 44 acres in production. About a third of the trees are retailed to local customers who come on the farm and choose their own trees.

Selling trees that way has become a lot more popular in the state since he first got into the business, according to Kuhns.

"Within Pennsylvania, choose-and-cut has grown by leaps and bounds," he said. "People want a guaranteed fresh tree and they like being able to pick their own tree."

Kuhns and family focus on customer service during the hectic pre-Christmas season. It's a challenge satisfying more than 1,000 on-farm customers in the relatively short period, but the family has a solid system in place.

They sell trees by the foot rather than by the piece. Beside giving customers a wider range of price options, this also reaps premium prices on large trees. While a 5-foot Fraser fir sells for $25, for example, a 10-footer brings $58.

Fraser Firs account for about 80 percent of sales, according to Larry, with 7-8 footers being the most popular.

The Kuhnses use their cash register as a recordkeeping tool to help them make better growing and marketing decisions.

"It gives us just a wealth of information," said Marianne of the farm's fairly old but reliable cash register.

The register tallies the type and size of each tree that is sold. It specifies other items, too, such as wreaths and crafts the Kuhnses sell each holiday season.

Customer-pleasing options also include tree baling, for easier transport, and drilling of trees for stands.

Beside Fraser Fir, Kuhns offers other types of Christmas trees including Canaan Fir, Colorado Blue Spruce, and Douglas Fir.

A pot-in-pot nursery for a variety of ornamental deciduous trees was also recently started to add diversity on the farm.

About 6,000 Christmas trees are planted each year with the help of a transplanting machine. The trees grow six to nine years before harvest time.

Kuhns has been using drip irrigation for about 10 years, although it hasn't been necessary this rainy spring and summer.

At a cost of about 15 cents per tree, though, Kuhns said he sees the drip irrigation system as an affordable form of crop insurance.

"I highly recommend it," he said.

Christmas trees usually just need the extra moisture during their first year in the field.

"Once they're established," Kuhns said, "they generally hang in OK."

Fraser Fir trees are the most demanding when it comes to moisture needs, he pointed out.

Kuhns had a major scare in the spring of 2002 when a hard frost in late May damaged many of the farm's 40,000 Christmas trees.

"On May 18, 2002, our trees never looked better," Kuhns said, "and by May 22 they looked like crap."

It was a relief to see the fir trees begin to grow out of their damaged, frostbitten branches. This year, it's hard to tell they

'Best Of Show' Features Botanicals, Ornamentals

FORT WASHINGTON (Montgomery Co.) — It was big, beautiful, and oh so colorful.

The brightly colored display, full of the most beautiful flowers in the world, was named best of the show at the annual Penn Allied Nursery Trade Show in late July at the Fort Washington Expo Center.

Each year the show has been growing. This year, 1,100 exhibitors managed 650 exhibits. There were about 12,000 people, representatives of the green industry, who visited the trade show.

The varied exhibits, from nursery supplies to landscape and plant management materials, occupy about 225,000 square feet of floor space.

Delaware Valley Wholesale Florists won best of show using a space occupying eight booths. The Sewell, N.J. company, with 600 employees, provides a variety of exotic fresh flowers, evergreens, and other items for the retail green industry.

The display included fresh flower bouquets and displays with daisies, minicarnations, roses, snapdragons, and pompom buttons. Included were calla lilies, assorted botanical plants, pathos, kaloncha, and ivy.

Also included were colorful Christmas ornaments, silks, berries, fruits, decorative plants, clusterberries, and hard goods.

On hand was Bill Schimmel, Carol Moore, Raj Ravani, and Randy Schenauer of the company, and Frank Kauffman, sales manager with Teufel Holly Farms, Inc., Portland, Ore., with the Christmas tree material.

The display was designed by Keith Rossel, director of marketing services, and assembled by a group of about 20.

About 180 growers supply material for Delaware Valley Wholesale Florists from 21 different countries. The company, according to Raj Ravani, vice president of sales, manages 95 refrigerated trucks and covers six Mid-Atlantic regions, including Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, New York, Maryland. and northern Virginia, including Washington, D.C.

About 80 percent of the fresh flowers are grown in South America. They are sold to retail florists, garden centers, event organizers, street vendors, and supermarkets.

This is the first time Delaware Valley exhibited at the Fort Washington event, noted Ravani. Company representatives attended the recent Super Florists Show in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Eagles' New Field Can Take The Pounding

veloped the DD GrassMaster system, which involves sewing synthetic fibers into natural-grass turf to strengthen it, without sacrificing softness.

"The field will look like grass, play like grass — and players and fans won't notice a difference," said Tony Leonard, the Eagles' sports field manager. The field got its first tryout Thursday, when the team wrapped up a two-week minicamp by moving practice from the team's usual practice site, the nearby NovaCare Complex, to "The Linc." Players and coaches were awed by the $510 million stadium, and were impressed by the field.

"It's a great surface," head coach Andy Reid told reporters, who were invited to observe the session, as were Philadelphia Flyers head coach Ken Hitchcock and 76ers general manager Billy King.

"They have natural grass down, and then they have a weave in it of artificial surface, and it held up well. The guys were kind of digging on it to see how it would hold up, and they were very impressed," said Reid.

"The footing is great," kicker David Akers said. "With (artificial) turf, you always get a consistent feel. You know what you're going to get, but I like this grass. It's not sandy like some places. Some of the new places are more like golf courses than football fields."

A GrassMaster field can be used for up to 900 hours a year, triple the number of hours an untreated, natural-grass field can be used in this part of the country, Leonard said. The Eagles chose GrassMaster as the solution to two conflicting priorities: the strong preference among players for natural-grass fields, and the durability problems of natural-grass fields in this region. Leonard noted that natural-grass fields installed in recent years in Baltimore, Pittsburgh and New Jersey have proven to be maintenance and fiscal headaches.

Leonard said the team wanted "The Linc" to have a field that would be safe for the players and cost effective to maintain. After an extensive search, he concluded that the GrassMaster system — which leaves the field consisting of 97 percent natural grass and 3 percent synthetic fiber — would give the Eagles the best of both worlds. So in the spring, the GrassMaster system was woven into the Kentucky bluegrass field at "The Linc." Two large machines went to work, cruising above the new field almost nonstop for two weeks. The machines installed fiber threads 1.75 inches deep into the soil, Leonard said. Each GrassMaster machine was self-propelled, with two mini excavators and 88 bobbins, which weighed 9.5 pounds apiece. The excavators hovered over the field and sewed the fiber into it with the bobbins.

"In the end you have a natural-grass field, synthetically reinforced," Leonard said. "It combines the playability of natural grass with the durability of synthetic."

Although the project cost $350,000, Leonard said he expects that the resilience of the field will lead to long-term savings in the form of reduced maintenance expenses. The Eagles are the second NFL franchise to install the system, following the Denver Broncos, who had the GrassMaster system installed at their Invesco Field. Leonard visited the field several times over the past two seasons, coming away impressed by its ability to endure rain and snow. The Pittsburgh Steelers will become the third when GrassMaster machines invade Heinz Field later this month.

Because of wear and tear on the natural grass, Pittsburgh has been forced to resod its field several times. Leonard said the GrassMaster system is ideal for both Pennsylvania fields because the stadiums are located in a climate where it is difficult to grow grass within the season.

"We all know the grass is going to wear out at some point in the season," Leonard said. "The GrassMaster will help to stabilize the field once the grass thins, by stabilizing sand in the root zone." Both Pennsylvania fields are expected to take a beating in the near future. In addition to serving as home of the Eagles, "The Linc" will host the annual Army-Navy football game five of the next six years and will take on other events, possibly including Temple's home football games. Heinz Field, besides serving as home of the Steelers, also hosts University of Pittsburgh home football games. Armstrong became the owner of Desso through its acquisition of the German flooring and carpeting firm, DLW, in 1998 for $340 million. The GrassMaster system was developed in the late 1980s and has been installed in more than 160 fields worldwide since 1992.

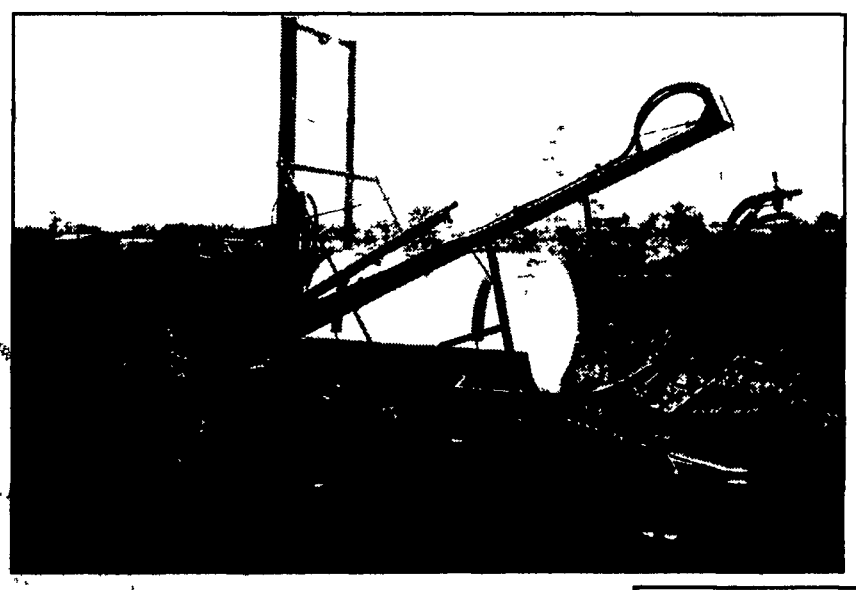
High Pressure Produce Sprayers

Trailer or 3 Pt. Hitch Models



Zimmerman's manufactures several different model sprayers designed for produce spraying. They are built for the small farmer that cannot justify a large expensive sprayer. Trailer models are available with a 200 or 300 gallon tank and 3pt hitch models with a 110, 150, 200 or 300 gallon tank. The 25' single sided boom has 7' plus clearance and requires a minimal amount of drive rows because of the wide span. It also has a hydraulic cylinder that allows the operator to level the boom from the tractor seat. A Hypro high pressure diaphragm provides up to 290 p.s.i. and non-drip nozzle bodies keep chemical loss minimal. Stop or call Zimmerman's today to see how we can help you with your spraying needs and improve your profit margin.

Turfgrass Professor Receives Award At Del Val

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — Dr. Douglas Linde, associate professor of agronomy and environmental science, recently received the Distinguished Faculty Member Award from Delaware Valley College.

Linde received the award in recognition of his outstanding service as a teacher, adviser, and contributor to Delaware Valley College and the community. A resident of Doylestown, Linde has been on the faculty for the past seven years, serving as head of the turf program and head golf coach. He is also the Turf Club adviser.

Delaware Valley College is a comprehensive four-year institution of higher learning in Doylestown with 1,350 men and women enrolled full-time in more than 35 academic programs, ranging from agricultural, biological and physical sciences, to business administration, computer information systems management, education, and English. In addition, more than 600 students are enrolled on a part-time basis in Del Val's evening and weekend colleges and in the graduate program, working to advance their careers.

Penn State Conducts Tree Inventory Workshop

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

YORK (York Co.) — Keeping track of the condition of trees in parks and along streets can be a tough job.

Until recently, the task usually involved the use of expensive handheld computerized data recorders or inefficient paper and clipboard methods to record data on the type, size, condition, maintenance requirements, and precise locations of trees.

Now, low cost personal digital assistants (PDAs), also known as palm pilots, can get the job done much more easily and inexpensively, according to Dr. David Bloniarz of the USDA Forest Service.

Bloniarz was one several presenters at a May 12 workshop called "Tree Inventories, Palm Pilots, and Desktop Computer Applications" at the York County extension office.

About 20 public workers and others in tree-related professions attended the daylong workshop, conducted by the Penn State School of Forest Resources and Cooperative Extension from York and Franklin counties.

Bill Elmendorf of the Penn State School of Forest Resources guides workshop participants in conducting a street tree inventory.

Palm pilots are good tools for transferring large amounts of data from the field to desktop computer databases. For those accustomed to the paper method of data collection, they eliminate the laborious job of handwriting information onto unwieldy clipboards, then re-entering it into a keyboard at the office.

Bloniarz, who works out of the USDA's Northeast Center for Urban and Community Forestry in Massachusetts, introduced a variety of tools that tree professionals can use to streamline the task of keeping an up-to-date tree inventory database. These include a variety of computer software options to use in collecting, synchronizing, organizing, and using tree data.

Bloniarz also familiarized the group with the USDA's Mobile Community Tree Inventory (MCTI) system, which is designed for users ranging from high school volunteers to certified arborists.

According to Bloniarz, a mobile tree inventory system is most useful when combined with geographic information system (GIS) technology.

"If you have it tied into GIS, that's where the power comes in," he said.

Helping to lead the workshop were Dr. Bill Elmendorf of the Penn State School of Forest Resources; Tom Becker, York County Extension; and George Hurd, Franklin County Extension.

Participants had the opportunity to practice taking a tree inventory, with palm pilots, on some trees lining streets near the York County extension office.

Stan Walton traveled from Cumberland County to take part in the workshop.

Walton has been a member of the Mechanicsburg Shade Tree Commission for about 25 years. He said the commission is looking into palm pilot technology as a way to better manage the city's trees.

"We're realizing we need to do an inventory," Walton said.

Arboretum Ready For Construction

Steiner spoke about the Arboretum design and construction last week at the 2003 Penn State Ag Progress Days in Rockspring.

In 1999, plans were approved by the Penn State board of trustees. The site encompasses 400 acres immediately adjacent to campus near Park Avenue, right on the main entrance to the campus. The cost: $40 million. Steiner needs to raise about $10 million now to begin construction.

The Arboretum will be one of the first things you see as you arrive at the campus, Steiner noted. Tens of thousands of people can enjoy the Arboretum, to be located on 400 acres of undeveloped land.

The site, when viewed from the air, looks like the shape of a claw hammer or axe. But the view doesn't belay from the fact that the site was chosen to preserve "the beauty and ecological functions of nature in an urbanizing environment," said Steiner.

State College and surrounding areas, according to the forest biology professor, are quickly becoming urbanized. The "rural amenities and natural amenities of the community are disappearing," he said.

The site poses a particular challenge, because about 85 percent of the university's water supply relies on wells in the area. The goal of the Arboretum is to protect that water quality.

Turfgrass management is one of the most "intense forms of agriculture," Steiner said. How that can be accomplished without harming groundwater will be a challenge that Steiner is confident about.

Particularly of interest to the Arboretum director is the restoration of the old Bellefonte Central Railroad line, a fixture from about 1890 to the early 1970s, that will be made into a bicycle and pedestrian path.

Already the Arboretum is home to research into the effects of ozone on plants. "What air pollution does to plants can be remarkable," Steiner said. The goal is to come up with plants that are more resistant to the detrimental effects of ozone.

There are times when the ozone in the Penn State air is high enough to injure plants. The levels can be "unnaturally high — considerably above natural levels," Steiner noted. In one experiment, a plant sits in a chamber, sealed from the outside, with a plastic cover that allows only sunlight. Filtered air is blown into the plant. The plant exhibits little or no damage from ozone.

However, next to the plant, in a different chamber, is a plant sealed away except that only outside, unfiltered air is pumped into the chamber. There are resulting differences in biomass between the two plants, showing clear effects of ozone exposure.

The ozone in State College can rise to 60, 80, or even 100 parts per billion, "three times the normal background levels," said Steiner.

The Arboretum will also examine blight-resistant chestnut seeds. Chestnut, the most common tree in forests 100 years ago, was almost wiped out by blight which began the first years of the last century. Chestnut trees were used for many things for different industries through the 1900s.

The research will mesh Chinese chestnut genetics with the American Chestnut (15/16 American, 1/16 Chinese) to examine ways to provide resistance to blight.

The outline of the Arboretum is included in the Marshall-Tyler-Rausch Master Plan for the Landscape and Botanic Gardens.

From the new Creamery, the Arboretum stretches straight back. The Arboretum will include an Educational Garden, Four Seasons' Garden, Pond and Fountain, Aquatic Garden, Fragrance Garden, glass Conservatory, and a Children's Garden and Educational Center (kindergarten through sixth grade). The facilities include an Event Lawn (for features and plant sales), Medieval Garden, Demonstration Garden (flower trials), Parterre Garden, Rock Garden, bike edestrian trail, Stream Garden, a "River of Grasses" (grass-themed garden), Preservation Garden, the President's Home, and a Meadow Garden.

The Arboretum will also include a Japanese Garden, Shade and Woodland Garden, and Landscape Botanic Gardens.

The university has not put any construction money into the project. The Arboretum will be built by money from "private individuals who come forward to make it possible," said Steiner.

"It's a great legacy. Everybody I speak to is enthusiastic about the Arboretum. It is the best thing happening to central Pennsylvania within our lifetimes."

Steiner can be contacted by e-mail at steiner@psu.edu.

Del Val Announces New Farm Market

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — After decades of selling goods on Rt. 202, a new era in service and education is planned with the construction of an 8,200-square-foot farm market on the corner of New Britain and Lower State Roads.

"This is an excellent opportunity for Delaware Valley College. The college has operated a farm market for 18 years, and this new market will allow us to expand the selections of agricultural products we can offer the public while enhancing the market's potential as a teaching and learning center and as a recruiting tool for students," said Dr. Thomas C. Leamer, president.

Scheduled for late fall of this year, construction of the new farm market is supported by a $600,000 grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development.

The farm market began as an alternative to selling college produce wholesale and getting minimal return from the fruits and vegetables produced as part of the educational activities. The facility later expanded to include ornamental plants, and in recent years the current market has reached its sales-space capacity.

Construction of the new facility is part of a two-phase strategy, said Dr. Neil Vincent, vice president for Academic Affairs and dean of faculty. Phase one was to develop a customer base and selection of produce. The new market is the beginning of phase two.

Costing an estimated $1.2 million, the facility will be constructed on 20 acres and will feature a single-story post-and-beam Dutch Colonial building. The main structure will contain the sales area, a bakery, receiving area, prep/work, and classroom and office space. Able to accommodate parking for 100, the new facility will be set up to house festivals, pick-your-own operations, farm tours, and demonstration gardens.

In addition to the 20 acres set aside for the market operation, a portion of the college's agriculture production space will be open to the public as an educational and recreational facility. As part of the college's core educational program, faculty and students will be engaged in the production of locally grown fruits and vegetables. The college will also provide training and market research information to local farmers. The market will also make available locally produced products by other farmers.

DITCHBANK MOWER

DB150. Over 30 years of hydraulic mower design experience has made the Rhino® DB150 the preferred choice of experienced operators for the mowing of pond banks, levees, drainage ditches, and hard-to-reach areas

The DB150 can extend to a maximum of 158" from the center line of the tractor allowing the 60 inch rotary head to cut areas that are difficult or impossible to reach with ordinary mowers By being hydraulically driven, maintenance is greatly reduced with the absence of belts and pulleys The DB150 outperforms many competitive units with smaller hydraulic systems The DB150 utilizes a 60 gallon hydraulic system which allows the unit to run cooler in tough mowing conditions The large reservoir also serves as a counterweight and remains stationary on the mainframe, eliminating the potential traffic hazard of a movable counter-balance weight The DB150 features a heavy-duty three-point hitch using a lower double lug hitch system to fit a wide range of tractors To help insure a clean cut, the DB150 features updraft blades and a blade tip speed of 20,028 FPM

The Farmstand: Direct Marketing Tips

A BOOK AND ITS COVER
Thomas B. Murphy
Penn State Extension Agent

It's been said for generations that "you can't judge a book by its cover." Yet we all know that as people, we don't subscribe very well to the adage.

In a very literal way, when people walk through a video store looking for some evening entertainment, it's the covers attracting attention and getting the customer to make many of the selections that they do. In a more abstract sense, choosing a spouse is often initiated on "cover" preferences. (Better stop with that one right there!) So what does this have to do with marketing, anyway?

Well, people are no different about those choices, then they are about the choices they make purchasing something from you. In the movie example, the relationship people build with the store is the most important part of the equation. They may hate the movie they took home and may tell all their friends how bad it was, but it's likely that they will never mention the store they rented it at because it's not a factor.

Five stores in town carry the same movie and everyone knows it. The relationship patrons have with the video store and its product line is fleeting at best.

If the store is clean, bright, organized, upbeat, convenient, and carries ample copies of the latest movies, then the customer is generally satisfied. In this case, the customer's short-term expectations are that the product will be very different every time he goes back.

Chances are that in the direct marketing of products which you either raise or produce, you're looking for a relationship that goes deeper than the cover. You know, like selecting the right spouse, the cover will age over time and the relationship you develop is what will carry you.

Cultivating a long-term friendship built on trust between you and your customers is what makes for a successful direct marketer. It is also the area of your business where you spend a great deal of time working on qualities such as superior customer service, fair pricing, wide selection of items, a reasonable return policy, and others. And, although this is the most important part of the marketing puzzle and the part which will give you growth in the long run, the cover is still very important.

So let's talk about that for a moment. Growth means new customers and they have to be attracted in your direction. What is your business "cover" and how does the customer see it?

Sometimes the simple things are important in the customer's eye. This past Christmas, it was pointed out to me by a group of shoppers of how they liked the bags and boxes they got at selected stores. What they had inside of them would ultimately be more important, but the package left an impression in their minds that could carry to the next time they needed to make a shopping preference.

Onlookers could also watch as farm owner Andrew Dewing used a portable sawmill to slice through a 126-year-old maple tree that had been tapped for more than 75 years.

"A lot of people ask if tapping hurts the tree. When we sawed the boards off, you could see where the tree closes off the hole where the tap goes in. Tapping also left streaks on the lumber," said Dewing.

So much of the production of maple syrup begins with taking care of the tree. When tapping, the Dewings follow strict guidelines related to the diameter of the tree and number of taps on a tree. In an effort to improve their stand, the Dewings have been actively working with a state forester.

"The sugar is made in the leaf, so if a tree has more leaves, it will have a sap with a higher sugar content. As we're developing the woodlot, we're thinning more than you would if you were thinning for log production. We want to open up the woodlot and get branches to grow all down the tree," said Dewing.

On average, it takes between 40-50 gallons of sap to produce a gallon of syrup. The higher the sugar content, the lower the ratio.

"Our goal is to get it below 40," said Dewing.

Usually the sap is only about 2 percent sugar. Through the evaporation process, the water is removed until the syrup reaches just the right stage. It is then drained out of the evaporator and bottled for retail sale.

"The sugar we're taking from the tree this spring was made last summer," said Dewing. "The sugar content was a lot higher because we had a lot of sunshine. If you get a summer with a lot of cloudy rainy days, the opposite is true. This year we had several runs over three percent sugar."

Sugar on snow is a special treat. Here Alaina Dewing takes a taste of the sweet taffy.

Andrew Dewing, his wife Sally and their family have hosted tours to their farm for at least five years, but their tradition of tapping maple trees dates back to an earlier time.

"My grandfather tapped trees and made syrup. He had a sugarhouse in the woods, but it burned (down) when Dad was a boy. After that, we just made enough to use ourselves with an open pan evaporator. In 1979 we sold some timber and decided to invest the money in the syrup business. We built the sugarhouse in the fall of 1979 and 1980 was the first year we made syrup on a commercial basis," said Dewing. "We started with 1,000 taps."

Although Andrew and Sally worked in partnership with his mother and father, the syrup business was largely their undertaking.

"We were looking for another source of income. It's something we'd always made and I really loved making it," said Dewing.

Three years ago, another partnership was formed with two of the Dewings' sons and their families. Matthew, his wife, Janet, and children Alaina, age 7, Grace, age 5, Ellie, age 3 and Gram, age 1, along with Nate, his wife, Delphine, and children Mikayla, age 4 and Jehiel, age 2, joined in the sweet industry.

At that time, they upgraded their equipment and started tapping a 35-acre plot that they had been developing for the last 20 years. They can put out up to 4,000 taps on their 350 wooded acres.

"We knew we'd be making more syrup. Our deal is that once the taxes and bills are paid, we split the profits in thirds. That's their incentive to sell syrup," said Dewing of the partnership.

Besides the physical labor of tapping trees, collecting and boiling sap and cutting firewood, each partner takes a turn manning trade show booths and selling the product from the farm. Nate has also developed a Website where syrup, maple products, and gift baskets can be purchased directly.

Products are also available at the farm year-round. The gift baskets were developed by Janet and Delphine and have been a hit at local craft fairs.

In all, the collection and production lasts only a few short weeks.

Freezing nights and warm, sunny days cause pressure to build up in the trees producing the best sap runs. But, as soon as the trees begin to bud, the trees stop making sugar and the sap changes from sweet to almost bitter. That's when production comes to a halt.

"We're open all year selling products," said Dewing. "But some people don't really have a concept of the production. If we say we're out of a particular thing, they'll ask if we will make more soon." Another son, Joel, chose not to be an active part of the maple business.

He has, however, continued the family's love of wood by constructing a home built entirely of products found on the farm.

"He used the old post and beam construction. From the hardwood floors to the siding to the posts and beams, everything was cut on the farm, sawn on the farm, and finished right here. When he cut all the beams and put the notches in them, I wasn't sure if it would all fit, but we put it up in a day, and it all fit!" Dewing said.

Much of the work for the home was done in woodshop carved out of a dairy barn. The old haymow is now half full of lumber while the other half still holds enough hay to winter several beef cattle.

"We had a dairy farm and we sold the cows about six years ago. The beef cows occupy the old heifer barn and dry cow pasture. We're in the process of changing to all Angus beef cattle. I bought eight Angus bred heifers last fall. Right now, I call it my motley crew. I even have a Scottish Highlander."

Life on this Century Farm couldn't be busier, but the family knows that the work they do now will reap sweet rewards later.

Customer Service Is Key To Success

had even suffered.

The field trip to the Kuhns Tree Farm also included herbicide demonstrations on controlling weeds in Christmas tree plantings, led by Scott Guiser of Bucks County Cooperative Extension.

Employee Doug Banker demonstrated good handshearing techniques, a practice for shaping natural-looking Christmas trees.

Larry Kuhns said he prefers handshearing over mechanical shearing machines, because the machines, with their rigorously uniform trimming, tend to make "real trees look artificial."

Jay Bustard of Bustard advertising spoke on marketing techniques, with a focus on newsletter preparation and distribution.

Conference participants also traveled to Penn State's horticultural farm at Rockspring, where participants saw demonstrations on seeding and transplant establishment, tabletop and live tree marketing, evaluating the impact of compost, and equipment demonstrations.

Other conference activities included genetic improvement updates, sprayer calibration, and a session on needle midges — a Douglas Fir pest that arrived in Pennsylvania last year.

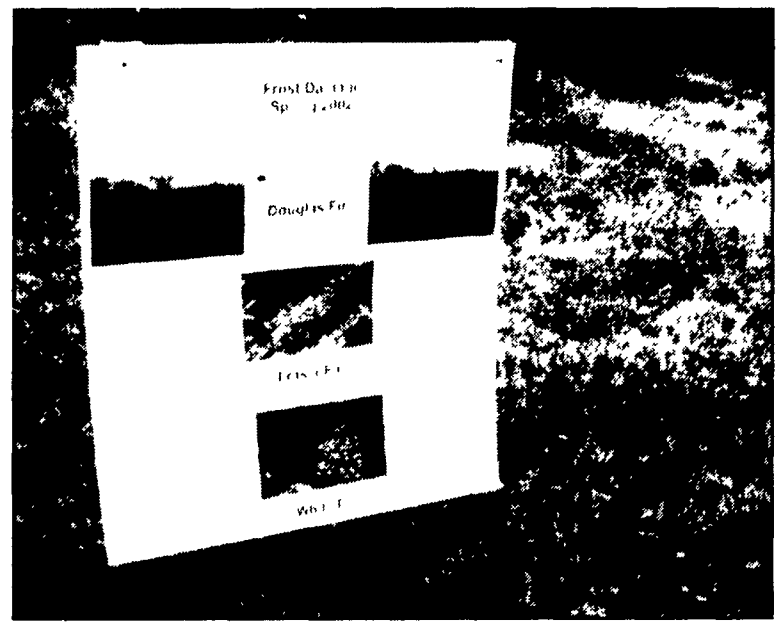
Drew Yenser, president of the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association, said next year will mark the 50th anniversary of the association.

Yenser recommended that new Christmas tree growers join the association "when they first plant trees" rather than later so they can learn from the experience of others.

Association membership has been growing in recent years, Yenser noted.

For more information, call the association at (717) 238-9765 or (800) 547-2842.

Scott Guiser, Bucks County horticulture agent, discusses weed-control methods in tree plantings on Kuhns Tree Farm.



Frost damage in May of 2002 posed a major threat. The healthy trees in the background show that they've since recovered.

Farm Stand

have the same type of influence on people, especially those visiting for the first time.

A sweet corn producer was describing his operation recently at a conference and he highlighted the bags he used to package his corn. They were small, citrus netting-type bags, which he used to pack from 3 to 12 ears of corn. On them was a label with a description of his farm and cooking instructions for both the stovetop and microwave. Conversation with him yielded further explanation of how people loved the uniqueness of the bags and the instructions on them.

There was no question that he gained customers by them. But make no mistake, in the end, the quality of the corn had to carry him. The point is, when the customer gets home and you're not there, your package might still make an impression that you no longer can.

Add some pizzazz!! Still using plain brown bags? Add names, logos, color, or your mission statement. Squeeze some funky humor in there somewhere. Better yet, use something unique and keep in mind they are relatively inexpensive when you purchase them by the gazillions.

Or how about a white canvas reusable bag for seniors with your name and logo on it. They become pretty attached to them and probably won't use them at "brand X" down the road. If you're a nursery, your products are leaving in an unwrapped manner, but you probably are giving customers care and planting directions. Ditch the photocopied ones and have some printed up professionally and put in a sleeve or envelope with your business name and phone number printed on it. If you offer a guarantee, print that on the sleeve as well. There are a lot of creative and inexpensive ways to do this; the biggest step is recognizing the value.

And as you start the new marketing year, don't overlook the bigger picture. Your business cover is also the appearance of your selling location. Whether you're roadside or tailgate, the impression someone has when they first glance in your direction will go a long way. Upgrade signs, banners, and displays. There is always room for improvement.

Think of how many things we do differently now compared to 10 years ago. If your business is not making a like number of changes you're falling behind on your potential for customers, especially new, younger ones. Attract attention, provide quality, and cultivate a long-term relationship. It will make you a successful marketer! (And yes, a better spouse.)

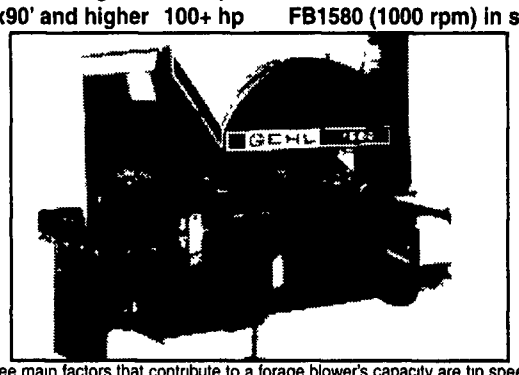
The Most Powerful Blower Made In Stock At Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. - 1000 RPM Model 1580 Gehl - Get One Today!

Choose The Gehl Blower That's Right For You

As a guideline, we recommend the following

Silo size	HP required	Gehl Model
20'Wx60'-70' high	70 hp	FB1540
25'Wx90' and higher	100+ hp	FB1580 (1000 rpm) in stock



The three main factors that contribute to a forage blower's capacity are tip speed hopper capabilities and available horsepower Generally speaking, for optimum capacity, the blower requires at least one horsepower for each foot the material must be blown

For instance, a blower on a 20-foot-diameter by 60-foot-center silo would require 70-plus horsepower On a 25-foot-diameter by 90-foot center fill silo you should have 100-plus horsepower

Horsepower requirements can be reduced with smoother unloading forage boxes and a wider gooseneck at the top of the silo

keenan SYSTEM
Better Farming - Better Feed

WANT TO REDUCE COW SORTING IN A SINGLE FEEDING

Start using the Keenan System on your farm.
The Keenan System combines on-farm TMR guidance built around the mixer wagon's unique tumbling action to precisely cut and mix hay, straw or baleage to the proper length (2"-4") – without destroying ingredients. It produces and even, fluffy ration that preserves the feed structure, discouraging sorting and optimizing rumen function for healthier cows. Healthier cows are productive cows. Productive cows are profitable cows.

Big capacity. Uniform chop.

Only the FP230 and FP240 forage harvesters from New Holland give you best-in-class and chop quality.

- Rugged 1,000-rpm driveline matches higher-horsepower tractors up to 225 and 300 PTO hp.
- Massive 12-knife cutterhead produces a uniform length of cut from 3/16" to 1-5/8" with four knives.
- Knife sharpening and shearbar adjustment are easy to keep cutting performance at its best.
- Optional on-board Crop-Pro™ crop processor makes feed more digestible and saves the expense and time of using a stationary roller mill.
- Optional Metalert® III electronic metal detector gives you peace of mind.

Stop in and see the FP230 with Crop Processor today.

Move mountains or forage

Keeping pace with your harvester and forage wagon can be a challenge... unless you have a New Holland forage blower. Choose from two models that move mountains of forage - fast!

Model F62B

- High-capacity blower center-fills silos over 100 feet tall.
- 37-inch large-capacity hopper; 12-inch feed auger; 60-in diameter blower fan
- Blows 180 tons per hour of corn silage; 110 tons per hour of haylage

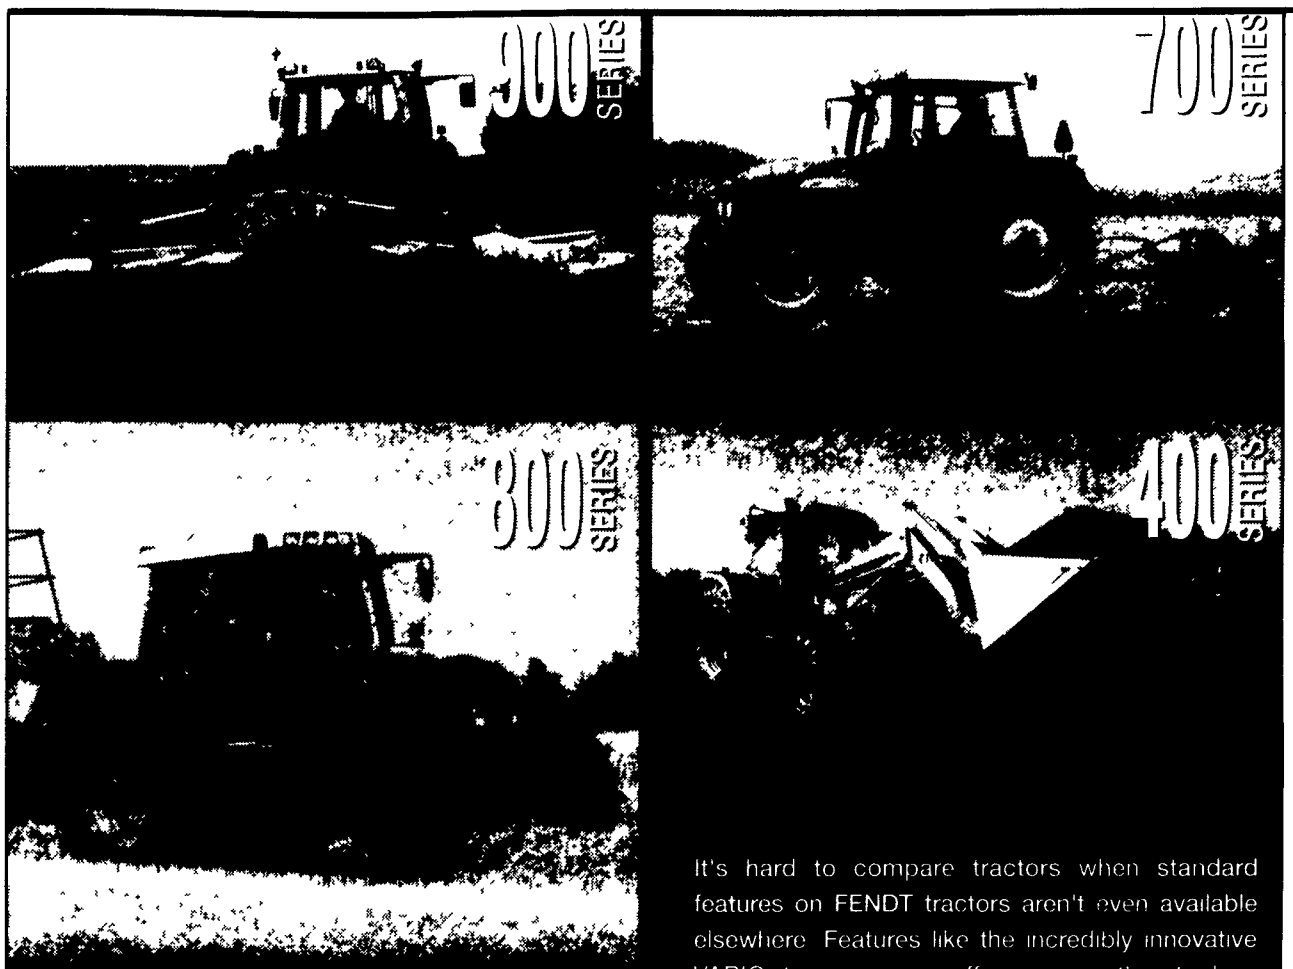
Leola, PA 17540 Phone: (717) 656-2321

Located: 4 miles West of New Holland on Rt. 23, 1-1/2 miles Northwest of Leola on the No. Groffdale Rd., 1 mile on the right, opposite Groffdale Mennonite Church.



It's hard to compare tractors when standard features on FENDT tractors aren't even available elsewhere. Features like the incredibly innovative VARIO transmission, offering smooth, stepless speed selection. Consider the value of comfort, which comes standard via front axle suspension, four-point cab suspension and a roomy air-ride seat. Then, there's the FENDT Gold Medal Customer Care program, with warranty and maintenance coverage that is unrivaled.

Best of all, the standard features on the FENDT offer more efficiency, economy and productivity. Stop by your FENDT dealer to experience the future.

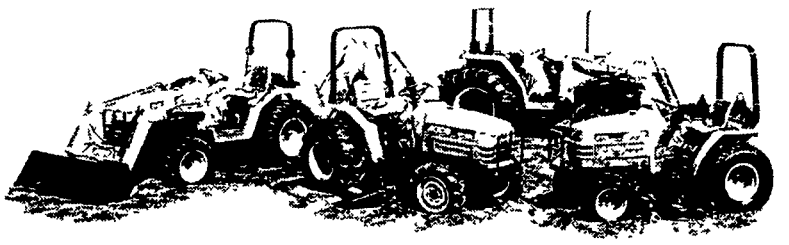
TOUGH CHOICES

THE TOUGH NEW LINEUP FROM AGCO.



Introducing the AGCO ST series, a whole new line of tough compact tractors, ready to tackle any job on your work site.

These powerful compacts aren't a bunch of fancied-up lawn mowers. They're designed from the ground up for agriculture and commercial professionals. From AGCO Corporation, with 100 years of tractor building experience.

With six models, ranging from 23 to 44 horsepower, there's one that's right for any job or budget. All models feature standard four-wheel drive, power steering, spring suspension seat and enough elbowroom for the guy they call "Tiny". And they're covered by a 24-month/1,500 hour warranty

You can put a new AGCO ST tractor to work for as little as $177.00 a month, with special introductory 6.9% APR * Choose the tough, new, affordable AGCO ST tractor that's right for your work site. They're all tough The choice is yours you've gotta drive one.

* For a limited time only Subject to credit approval by AGCO Finance with qualifying down payment 6 9% fixed APR up to 60 months Example based on Model ST25 Standard equipment includes 4WD, mid and rear PTO and rugged 6F/2R std transmission MSRP of $11,632 and 25% down payment Freight, taxes, setup and delivery not included Prices, down payments and models may vary by dealer

MXU 125 Maxxum tractor with RMX370 tandem disk harrow.

Woods Introduces MX™ Deck Zero-Turn For Radius Mow'n Machines

OREGON, Ill. — Woods Equipment Company has introduced the MX™ deck, a powerful new deck choice for their front-mount, zero-turn radius Mow'n Machines.

Months of research and testing have produced an exclusive V-Baffle design that accelerates airflow, creating a powerful vacuum that forces grass to stand taller. This allows a more precise, even cut on all types of grass. Removable internal baffles ensure an excellent cut on northern bluegrass and fescue as well as the tough southern Bahia and St. Augustine grasses.

The new deck was field tested by commercial contractors in Florida, Texas, and Illinois, mowing up to 14 hours per day. Woods also performed simulated "lifetime" tests that recreated the toughest field conditions a mower could encounter. The MX deck performed for 1600 hours, equal to four years of hard seasonal use, without failure. Woods performed the same "lifetime" tests on a leading competitive model, whose deck suffered a major structural failure after 33 hours.

The 5-inch deep MX deck handles a larger volume of grass than previous models. The deeper deck, combined with an 18,400 FPM blade tip speed that moves more material at a faster rate, has increased the Mow'n Machine's capacity and cutting speed.

With premium features, durability, and an exceptionally comfortable ride, the F-Series Mow'n Machine with MX deck will be considered the best riding mower in its class. Additional Mow'n Machine features include four engine choices, plus an 11-gallon fuel capacity, and 10 mph maximum transport speed. Woods' exclusive True-Float deck suspension system allows smoother operation even in rough terrain.

Case IH Launches New Multi-Purpose Tractor

RACINE, Wis. — The new Case IH MXU Series Maxxum® tractor line offers producers the perfect blend of features and options for row-crop, loader, and general-purpose applications. Three models range from 80 to 105 PTO horsepower.

"The Case IH MXU line-up gives 'multi-purpose' new meaning," said Larry Lanie, marketing manager for Case IH MXU Series Maxxum tractors. "Producers can choose from two-wheel drive or mechanical front-wheel drive, flat-deck ROPS or cab versions, bar or flange axles, and two transmission options, not to mention the industry's most convenient operator environment."

Whether equipped with a cab or foldable ROPS, Case IH MXU Series tractors offer operators the comfort and convenience needed for high productivity. Easy entry and exit from the left- or right-side are assured with a wide-open deck and a two-door cab. Like all Case IH tractors, the MXU100, MXU110, and MXU125 feature tilt and telescoping steering, ergonomically designed right-hand controls, a left-hand power shuttle, and an ISO-mounted deck.

MXU Series ROPS tractors feature a swiveling, deluxe mechanical seat that offers multiple seat adjustment points. Cab versions are equipped with a swiveling, deluxe air-ride seat with multiple adjusting points, including lumbar adjustment and five bounce dampening settings. In addition to cup holders and multiple storage compartments, cab tractors also offer special options like a full-size instructor seat and a performance monitor with a keypad enabling advanced programming, control, calibration, and other functionality settings.

"Pick your application, and we can customize a tractor to meet your demands," said Lanie. "MXU Series tractors will perform high-capacity loader operations all day, everyday in a feedyard, or work hard in the field preparing for planting or baling hay."

"Farmers searching for versatility will find the features they need to meet their needs in the new Case IH MXU Series tractor," said Lanie.

WestfaliaSurge Introduces New Metatron Milk Meters

NAPERVILLE, Ill. — WestfaliaSurge has introduced Metatron 21, the next generation of the popular milk meters and management systems.

According to the company, Metatron meters have become the world's most widely used milk meters over the last 20 years. The two new units, Metatron 21 Premium and Metatron 21 Select, offer significant advantages over previous designs.

Metatron 21 Premium offers a fully functional display to aid in total farm management for all sized dairies. The large LCD panel shows critical dairy management data such as cow ID, milk production data, breeding records, conductivity, and settings for stimulation, pulsation, claw removal, backflushing, and sort gate control.

Metatron 21 Select features a simple LED numeric display of animal ID and milk volume, plus alerts for conductivity and do-not-milk warnings. Metatron 21 Select controls the same functions as Metatron 21 Premium.

Producers can use both models in one parlor. For example, install Metatron 21 Premium in the first and last stall and use Metatron 21 Select for all other stalls. Metatron 21 Premium can be installed anywhere in the dairy, such as holding areas, sort gates and free stalls, for user-friendly access.

Both new Metatron 21 units provide real time, accurate milk metering and complete dairy farm management capabilities. The ergonomic design features easy-to-read displays, logical button placement and a slim horizontal design for better visibility and easier cow access. The high impact, water resistant control panel case protects critical electronic components.

The milk meter used with the new Metatron 21 units is still considered the industry standard for accuracy and reliability. Constructed of durable Radel material, the meter meets all U.S. Public Health standards and is DHIA and ICAR approved.

Stewart Named Product Communications Manager For Dow AgroSciences

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Robert Stewart has been promoted by Dow AgroSciences to manage the U.S. Ag Northern and Southern communications efforts.

Stewart will work with Dow AgroSciences' communications agency, Bader Rutter and Associates, and the company's communications specialists in the creation and execution of brand messaging and tactics for its portfolio of crop protection products.

Stewart is a graduate of the University of Kentucky where he received a bachelor's degree in agriculture and a master's degree in agricultural education. He was previously a field sales representative in the Turf and Ornamental business. Stewart's appointment fills a position previously managed by John Gertz, who recently accepted a promotion within the company.

Equipment Technologies Brings Back APACHE 500 Series Sprayer

MOORESVILLE, Ind. — Equipment Technologies, Inc. (E.T.), the largest independently owned manufacturer of mechanical drive, high-volume sprayers in North America, has re-introduced their 500-gallon Apache sprayer.

E.T., already known for high-clearance, post-emergence sprayers at an affordable price, is targeting farmers and operators looking for additional tank capacity and improved performance in the smaller end of the market.

"The Apache 500 should be attractive to farmers and operators looking for more tank capacity to fit their current operation and to the guy considering a new machine purchase for the first time," Jim Bates, vice president of sales and marketing at E.T. said. "We had a lot of success with the original model and have had relentless demand to bring it back from our dealers and their customers. What's more, this model is actually better than the original Apache 500 because most of the components on this sprayer are the same as those used on our 850, 1000, and 1200 Series machines."

Many consider Apache's mechanical drive system to be more economical than hydrostatic drive because it's rugged and less expensive to maintain. In addition, the Apache's simplified system often enables owners to make any necessary repairs themselves, thereby getting the sprayers back in the field and reducing downtime.

Accelerated Genetics Announces PACE Releases

BARABOO, Wis. — Accelerated Genetics is pleased to release 14 new bulls for the Progressive Action Through Cooperative Efforts (PACE) young sire program.

These bulls, from the Jersey and Holstein breeds are the top new genetics available to improve herds. The semen from these bulls will be randomly allocated to dairy producers participating in Accelerated Genetics' PACE program.

John Roche is one of two Irish brothers who will share views on untapped grazing potential at the PFGC Grazing Conference March 5 and 6.

Irish Brothers, Genetic Researcher On Slate

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — This year's Pennsylvania Forage and Grazing Conference will take place March 5 and 6 at the Holiday Inn in Grantville.

This conference has something for forage producers and graziers at all levels of experience. The conference is sponsored jointly by the PFGC, the Pennsylvania Grazing Research and Education Center, Pennsylvania's Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative and Penn State Extension.

The first day of the conference kicks off with brothers John and Tom Roche. John works as a grazing researcher/consultant in New Zealand, and Tom manages the home dairy farm in Ireland. These brothers have recently been exploring the possibilities of starting a grazing dairy here in the U.S. Over the course of the conference they will discuss 'hands on' experiences as well as differences, similarities and opportunities of grass farming in the U.S. and around the world.

Other talks on the first day will include topics such as animal genetics for grazing (sure to stimulate discussion), effectiveness of equipment to speed hay drying, keeping and using accurate farm records, large rectangular bale storage and marketing, and health concerns of animals on pasture.

Dr. Steve Washburn from North Carolina State University will be leading the discussion on animal genetics for grazing. The evening of the first day will include discussion sessions between attendees and speakers.

The second day of the conference starts with a look at grazing and family life, impact of the Farm Bill and new regulations on forage and grazing farms, and pasture maintenance. Presentations include recognizing the challenges of grassfed beef farmer health concerns and farm liability. The day continues with a presentation by the Roche brothers on grazing opportunities in the Northeast. The conference will conclude with a brief wrap up session and awarding of door prizes.

Producers will give many of the presentations during the two day conference.

The PFGC will conduct its annual reception and awards program Wednesday evening, followed by informal discussions with the day's presenters.

The conference will also include a trade show with com-

OLEY (Berks Co.) — Nevin Mast has been crossbreeding Holsteins and Jerseys for about 10 years.

"I just like the cross so well," the dairyman said during a pasture walk on his organically certified farm last September.

Mast hosted about a dozen farmers who were interested in seeing his grazing operation. Joining the group was Mena Hautau, Berks County extension agent, and Dr. Steve Washburn, a dairy researcher from North Carolina State University.

Grass and hay are the main source of feed for the 50 cows on Mast's 110-acre farm. He supplements milking cows with 12-14 pounds of grain per day. Heifers between the age of four months and their first calving receive no grain.

Advantages of the Holstein/Jersey cross include easier breeding and calving, hybrid vigor and greater survivability, according to Mast and Washburn.

"The biggest gains are in the survivability traits," said Washburn, who studies the benefits of crossbreeding in dairy herds. He predicted that crossbreeds will have an increasing impact on commercial dairy production in the future.

Washburn is one of the speakers slated for the upcoming Pennsylvania Forage and Grazing Conference scheduled for March 5 and 6 in Grantville.

"A typical average first conception rate for purebred Holsteins when using artificial insemination is between 30 and 40 percent. In crossbreeds that number can reach nearly 50 percent," according to Washburn.

Washburn said dairy farmers need to have a plan when it comes to crossbreeding. The plan should include research ing the fertility of the daugh ters of bulls used in the cross breeding program and knowing the bulls' production data. While hardiness and reproductive traits are important, production must be a primary goal.

As Washburn put it, "Milk still pays the bills."

In crossbred cows production levels tend toward the higher producing breed, he noted.

While Jerseys and Holsteins genetics make up the main part of the gene pool on Mast's farm, he also enjoys experimenting with different types of crossbreeding. For example, Mast said he recently purchased a White Park bull to breed to some of his heifers.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Project Grass is on the move.

Last year the grassroots grassland management group expanded to include every region of Pennsylvania and has been at work developing new programs to foster grass based farming and conservation practices in the state.

Last November marked the first ever Project Grass Conference. More than 100 people attended the two day event at State College.

The conference included presentations on the history of Project Grass — first formed in Southwest Pennsylvania in 1980 — research findings on the economic and environmental benefits of livestock grazing

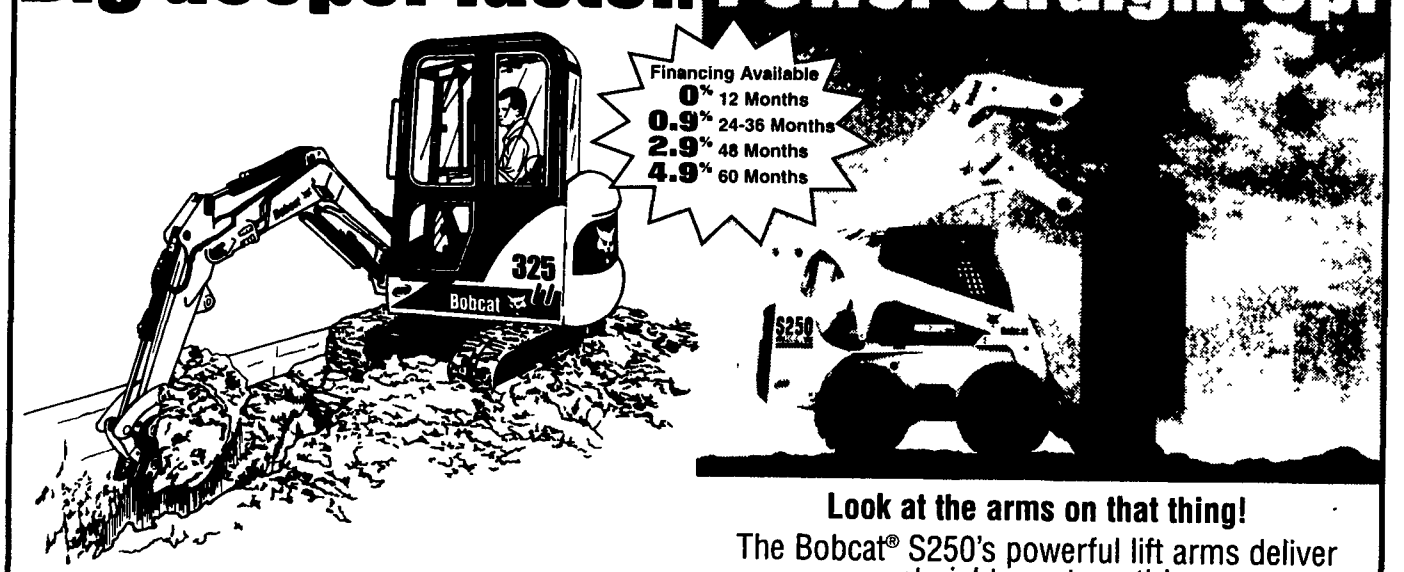
Bobcat Excavators

Bobcat S250 Skid-Steer Loader
Vertical Lift Path

Dig deeper faster. Power Straight Up!



Multi-function hydraulics. No wonder Bobcat excavators have the best cycle times in their class. Swing the house, raise the boom, extend the dipper, dump the bucket — all at once!
And when you hook up with a wide variety of Bobcat attachments, these rugged excavators do a lot more than dig.
Choose from ten models — ten easy solutions to hard work.

The Bobcat® S250's powerful lift arms deliver straight-up strength!
•Big Lift capacity: 2,500 lb. R.O.C.
• Superior visibility
• Unmatched hydraulic lifting ability

All Sizes of New S&S Silos Available

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS
Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before The silo's interior with plaster damage and stave exposed

After The surface is reconditioned and a new thick tough surface will protect stored feed

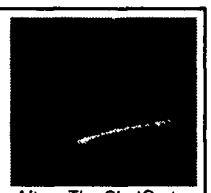
REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall

After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made.. quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away



After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

- 35 year warranty Everlast painted steel (your choice of color on roof, sides, trim).
- Steel is G 100 painted and heat roll formed by Everlast Inc., the best known roofing made.

4 BUILDINGS AND SUPPLIES

What's heat forming?

In metal roofing and siding it's the best way to go! Here is why. Everlast heats the paint very hot on their Everlast II product before they cut and form it into roofing and siding. Tests have proven that heating paint before cutting and bending prevents virtually all microscopic cracks in the paint Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important. Normally manufacturers form and cut at room temperature Unfortunately that cracks the paint causing early rust at formed bends and edges

ROASTED BEANS FOR PROFIT
Some of the many advantages of using Roasted Soybeans
- All natural protein with no harmful chemicals or fillers
- Very high bypass protein, unlike solvent soybean meal
- Increases ration palatability to heighten dry matter intake
- Includes a broad spectrum of the essential amino acids
- High protein and energy, yet low neutral detergent fiber (NDF)

Announcing

Crude Soy Oil Now Available

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications Crude soy oil is a natural alternative to animal fats and provides needed energy in various rations

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:

- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets.
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets.
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds.
- Can be used for dust control purposes.
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems.

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:

- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat.
- Vegetable based product
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat.
- Bulk delivery, partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills.
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs

Other Soy Products Available:

- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil.

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program

- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products

Northumberland County
This is two farms by same owner which can be sold separately The one farm of 132 acres is a modern dairy with 153 free stalls and a double 8 DeLaval milking parlor. There is room for expansion. This farm is level and very fertile. They have not needed commercial fertilizer for at least 7 years.
The other farm is presently quarter horses, and this land is identical to farm #1 This one has 113 acres with most of it tillable. The residence is unique, having been built in 1803, and #1 was built in 1830. Both have 5 bedrooms and modern baths There is a 24' by 80' silo on each, as well as many other pluses The second would make a beautiful beef farm or make a dairy here as well. Priced separately or both together as a package deal. Call today.
Central Northumberland Co. 71 acre Amish equipped dairy farm. The setting is ideal, excellent soils, beautiful 3 bedroom farm house w/modern kitchen, Parquet oak floors and lots of excellent living area. There is a large horse barn, milk stable, implement shed and much more. Let me give you a private tour. You can have settlement now to honor your tax deferred exchange with possession at a later date. I'll handle those details for you It won't last long - it's priced right.
Bradford County, 2 New Opportunities
I have just listed a large modern dairy with lots of ground. There is multiple housing, great location and the possibility for you to buy a turnkey operation also is a plus. Could be rather quick possession or let's do an IRC 1031 Tax Deferred Exchange and keep your investment intact from the sale of your present property.
Opportunity #2: Over 100 acres of good farmland with bordering woodland and wooded patches rich in game and the elevation for building a hunting lodge or permanent residence surrounded by the farmland and neighboring tracts of woodland makes this a great place for retirement also. Big rack deer, bear and lots of turkey abound. Priced right. It should sell quickly. Call me for a private showing.
